Dickens Nearly Got Thrown Out

An unusual Broadway attraction is a single person—Welshman Emye Williams, who, made up to look like Charles Dickens, or characters from the books of that British titan of letters of a bygone generation, recites passages from the more popular stories—"David Copperfield," "Tale of Two Cities," "Pickwick Papers," etc.

Dickens (born Feb. 7, 1812) was without doubt the most popular literary figure of the 19th century and had the widest following in the United States.

In 1842 Dickens and his wife visited America. They were lionized as Americans now greet crooners and bosomy movie actresses on tour. But Dickens, despite his humble and poverty-stricken beginnings, from which he drew much of his material, was not too happy in the yet new and, to him, crude America. He returned home from what had been a triumph to satirize much of what he had seen in "American Notes." These notes were, in fact, the wounds left behind, and nowhere did they burn any more than in Louisville, Ky., and at the Galt House and in the breast of Major Throckmorton.

The Visit

The story of that visit was one of the favorites in the many told by Col. Henry Watterson, famed editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who had the story from an old man who, as a boy taken to see the great Britisher, was an eye-witness.

In those days the new Galt House was the center of Louisville's social aristocracy whenever it came from the Blue Grass to town. It had just been completed—in fact it had been hurried in prospect of the Dickens visit—at a cost of $1,000,000. It was, as it modestly claimed to be, "the finest hotel west of the Alleghenies." It featured marble columns, high ceilings, huge rooms. It had the first elevator in Louisville.

The best suite was reserved for Dickens, and all was swept, cleaned, painted and florally decorated for the great man.

One of the city's leading citizens was Major M. Throckmorton, described as "a gentleman, every inch of him." He owned the hotel. No great function in the city was complete without him. All great events took place at his hotel and he was a chairman of almost all the city's reception committees. He was scheduled for a speech of welcome to Dickens.

At last the great day arrived.

Landlord

So did Dickens. He was welcomed quietly, and shown to his room. After he had been given time to remove the stains of travel, the official committee, led by Major Throckmorton, appeared.

Now Dickens, on his American tour, was often in an ill humor. And, in England, tavern keepers were not recognized as social leaders.

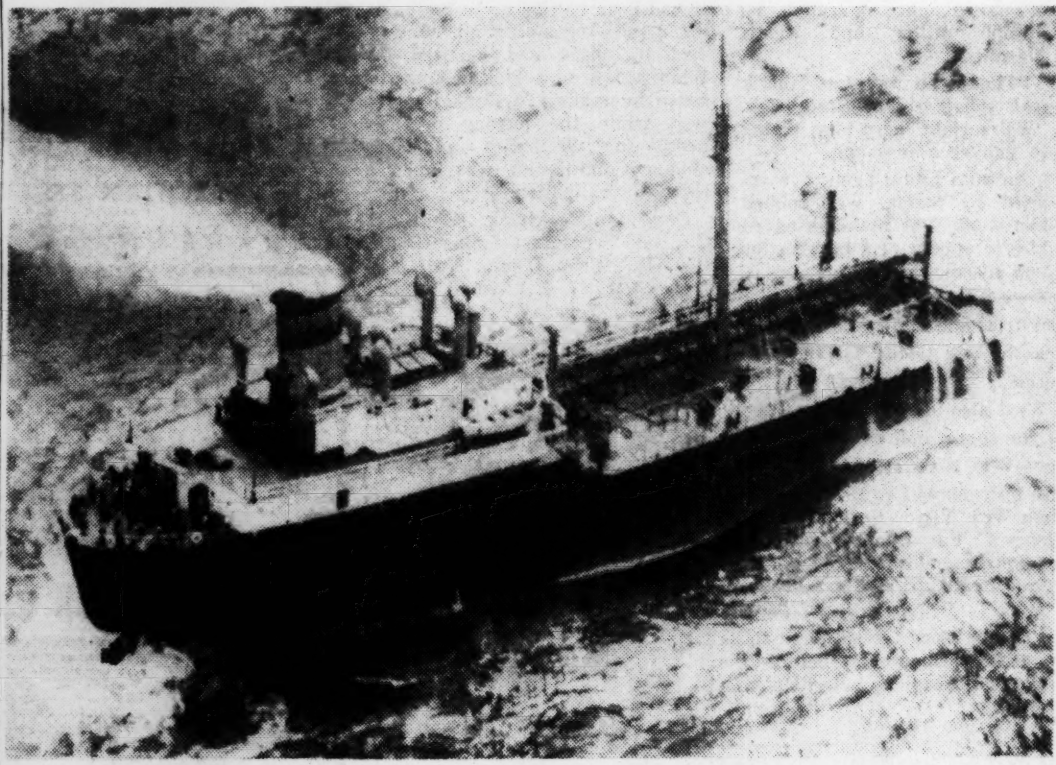

So, as the major appeared, the beaming committee of citizens behind him, and began the address of welcome, Dickens cut him short.

"Landlord," he said brusquely, "when I need you I will send for you."

For a moment Major Throckmorton's cheeks blanched. His wattle paled. Then both grew red. He made a rush for the startled Dickens and would have hauled him from the room had it not been for the doubly horrified committee. They pulled the major out of the room, though glaring heavily at Dickens, and left that famous man to himself.

"American Notes," which appeared later and were biting and caustic in enough places to burn many American hides, set off Major Throckmorton once more. He denounced the committee for having stopped him from throwing Dickens out of the new portals of the New Galt House, and the committee agreed.

But, as Colonel Watterson used to say, it was good for business. Both the major and the committee would stand at the Galt House bar drowning their sorrows in juleps and bourbons, depending on the weather, and wishing for Charles Dickens to come back once more and give them a chance to make good.

13 Crewmen Volunteer To Stay Aboard Half-Ship To Attempt Salvage Operations

13 Stick to Split Tanker Ship Deals As 21 Are Taken Off Enterprise, Casey Vows

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 19.—(P)—Twenty-one survivors of the split-in-two tanker Fort Mercer were removed by raft and breeches buoy late Tuesday and 13 others stayed aboard to help in salvage operations.

Long's Pick Far Behind In Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19.—(P)—Appeal Judge Robert Kennon, an independent, raced into a strong 49,000-vote lead Tuesday night over Carlos Spah, Gov. Earl Long's choice to succeed him as governor of Louisiana.

This vote may prove decisive in the election.

Reports from 426 of the state's 2,113 precincts showed:

Kennon, 115,799.
Spah, 66,193.

These unofficial returns included 302 precincts out of 307 in New Orleans, where Kennon polled 105,587 and Spah 59,504.

Kennon had the backing of the city's three daily newspapers and the political organization of Mayor Lelespess Morrison.

Before the election, Spah leaders said they hoped their candidate would stay within 20,000 votes of Kennon in New Orleans to protect his strength throughout the remainder of the state.

Home Rule Unit Wins Approval Of Hartsfield

Council's "home rule" committee got the official approval of Mayor Hartsfield Tuesday.

The mayor signed the council resolution creating the committee. The group, composed of one member of council from each of the city's nine wards, will make a thorough study of the law before attempting recommendations on home rule, it was indicated by Alderman Ed Gilliam, chairman.

Council created the committee following passage of legislation reducing the number of city wards to eight, cutting council membership from 27 to 17, and raising salaries of several officials by $80,000 annually.

U. S. Jets Down 3 MIGs of 150

SEOUL, Wednesday, Feb. 20.—(P)—United States Sabrejets flying cover for bomber missions Tuesday destroyed three of an estimated 150 enemy MIGs that tried to intercept them over northwest Korea.

One MIG was knocked from the skies in a morning encounter between 27 Sabres and elements of a formation of 100 Russian-made MIGs. The other two were destroyed in a battle between 26 Sabres and 50 MIGs in the afternoon.

Allies Cling To Veto of Soviet Police

Envoys Ironing Out POW Details

By RUTHERFORD M. POATS

TOKYO, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Allied and Communist staff officers went back to work at Panmunjom Wednesday on one of the three major problems blocking a Korean armistice—Russian participation as a "neutral" nation inspecting the truce.

The staff officers discussing truce supervision have argued heatedly since late last week on the question. The United Nations command vetoed Russia "for obvious reasons." The Communists demanded the UN reverse its "intolerable" decision.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The other two problems blocking a truce are decisions on whether war prisoners should have a choice on whether they go back home and whether airfields could be built up during a truce. These two questions are outside the province of the staff officers and must be settled at a higher level.

Two separate groups met early Wednesday—the officers studying truce supervision and another group discussing exchange of war prisoners. Both were concerned chiefly with ironing out the minor details since they were ordered to leave the big problems for senior delegates.

ALLIES STAND FAST

The Allies not only stood fast on their rejection of Russia, but accused the Reds of winking on an agreement that all nominees must be approved by both sides.

The Communists lashed back.

Formosa Bid Seen in Red Marine Force

By GEORGE BARRETT

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TOKYO, Feb. 19.—The Chinese Communists are organizing and training a marine amphibious force as a spearhead group under the command of Gen. Lin Piao for a possible invasion of Formosa, according to unofficial reports issued here Tuesday.

The Chinese Communists, who have made no secret of their intentions to try to wipe out the remnants of the Chinese Nationalist resistance, are said to be sharpening up their invasion plans on the assumption that an armistice may soon end the war in Korea and they can turn their full attention to a campaign to get rid of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

According to reports here, which it must be emphasized, have no official stamp, the recent amphibious operations against the United Nations forces on the islands off the shores of Korea were a part of the training program for a future marine assault by the Chinese Communists against the island fortress still held by the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa, no more than 100 miles off the mainland of China.

An indication of the top importance that Mao Tse-tung, Chinese Communist leader, places on the assault force is said to be the selection of General Lin as commander of the special unit, a selection that was received with considerable surprise here because, according to the latest word, the leaders of the Chinese Red Fourth Field Army was still in the hospital two months ago.

Democrats Lose N. Y. House Seat

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(P)—Republican Robert Tripp Ross won a Democrat-held seat in the House Tuesday in the presidential year's first congressional election. It was a special election to fill the vacancy created by a resignation.

As the only avowed anti-Truman candidate in a four-way race, Ross polled 17,300 votes to 11,442 for his Democratic opponent, City Councilman Hugh Quinn.

The Liberal Party candidate, George F. Cranmore, got 2,648 votes. The American Labor Party-Independent entrant, Mrs. Thelma Bearman, collected 1,221 votes.

4-Power Talk Agrees On Army for Europe, Rearming of Germany

Extend War Power, Plea Of Truman

By W. H. LAWRENCE

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—President Truman Tuesday asked Congress to extend for the duration of the national emergency, and six months thereafter, 60 of his war-time emergency powers, including authority to take over and run the railroads.

Mr. Truman requested action before the treaty of peace with Japan becomes effective, lest these powers lapse with the ending of the technical state of war. Most of the powers can be exercised only during a state of war, and Mr. Truman said his legal advisers assumed that the present conflict in Korea "does not constitute a state of war within the meaning of the statutes dealt with."

The White House sent a draft bill to Capitol Hill along with separate letters to House Speaker Rayburn and Vice-President Barkley.

'ESSENTIAL' POWERS

Mr. Truman's letter said the 60 powers, taken together, are "very significant . . . during a period when disturbances in world affairs makes it necessary to exercise unusual powers."

His letter listed these four principal powers as essential:

1. The President, in time of war, may assume control over the railroads. This power presently is being exercised.

Grant Voted Continued At Piedmont

Piedmont College trustees Tuesday voted to continue accepting a grant of $6,000 a year from the Texas Education Association after a five-man investigating committee recommended that the money be taken "as long as there continues to be no strings attached."

The board, meeting in Atlanta at the Central Congregational Church, refused to accept the resignation of Miss Josephine Wilkins who asked to resign as a trustee because of a "vital issue of principle."

Miss Wilkins, however, said she would insist upon acceptance of the resignation immediately.

The board's action, taken in closed session, was the latest in a series of controversies at the Demorest college.

The TEA first began sending the school $500 a month in January, 1951, after Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, representing George Arm-

Giant Tears Truck Apart To Save Trapped Driver

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 19.—(P)—A giant Negro walked out of the night on the highway about 10 miles northwest of here early Tuesday, saw a man trapped in the cab of his smoldering truck-trailer and ripped the cab apart to save the driver.

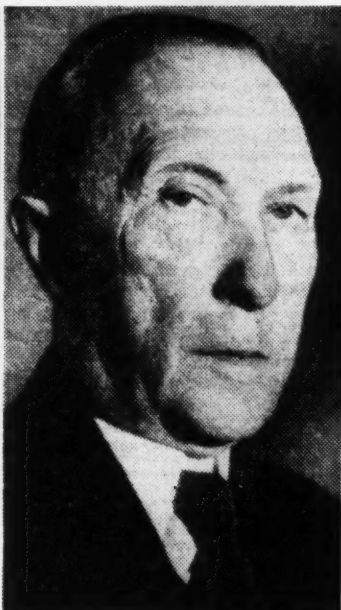

The unconscious driver fell free into the arms of waiting and astonished deputy sheriffs, and the Negro disappeared as quietly as he appeared.

"No one knows his name," said Deputy Sheriff Don Henry, "but he did a job I couldn't do with six trucks and a wrecker. It was a terrific display of human strength."

The trapped truck driver was Roy Gaby Jr., 26, Houston.

He was driving a loaded truck to Houston when he ran out of gas and telephoned his wife to bring some gasoline. She had brought the gas and was driving the family car ahead of him when an apparently drunk driver forced her off the road on the right side. Her husband's truck was forced off on the left.

Gaby was trapped inside his telescoped truck. Flames ap-

LISBON, Feb. 19.—The council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will start its critically important ninth session here Wednesday encouraged by this week's diplomatic agreements in principle on the need to rearm Western Germany.

A proposal was agreed upon by the deputies of the 14 Allied Nations Tuesday which strongly recommends that the foreign finance and defense ministers press for a European defense community including the Bonn republic and work to associate Germany more closely to the Atlantic community.

Training in U. S. Under Study for Bonn Army Units

BONN, Feb. 19.—(INS)—A top-ranking military informant disclosed Tuesday night that American officials are considering a master plan to train the nucleus of the proposed West German army in the United States instead of Europe.

The plan was said to have the full support of upper-echelon military leaders at the Pentagon.

It was drawn up as a 100-page staff study by a former member of the German general staff who visited the United States last year at the request of the government and was able to study U. S. training facilities.

Sweeps Aside All Obstacles Barring Pact

By CLIFTON DANIEL

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Feb. 19.—After three days of meetings, the United States, British and French foreign ministers and the West German chancellor announced Tuesday they had succeeded in removing the obstacles that have delayed the establishment of a European army and a new contractual relationship between the Western Powers and the Bonn republic.

RENEWED ASSURANCE

A four-power communique issued as the ministers were dispersing—the Western representatives on their way to Lisbon and Chancellor Adenauer returning to Bonn—said they were "well pleased with the results of their work" and the parallel negotiations in Paris and Bonn were "now approaching a successful conclusion."

Among the results the four ministers were reported to have obtained were the following:

1. Britain and the United States gave a renewed public assurance of "abiding interest in the establishment and integrity of the European Defense Community," thus assuring France obviously that they would not idly allow Germany

Bank Mission, Iran Moving Near Accord

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 19.—(P)—Premier Mohammed Mossadeq and an International Bank mission issued a joint communique Tuesday night saying that partial settlement of the Iranian oil crisis has been agreed on.

In a last meeting before the bank's special mission leaves for Washington, the negotiators agreed to continue efforts for full settlement of the dispute with Britain over operation of the nationalized oil refineries.

The communique said the premier, his advisers and the bank mission have met since early January "in an atmosphere of cordiality and good will." During these discussions an understanding has been reached on a number of points.

"On other points, a frank exchange of views has clarified the respective positions of the Iranian government and the bank," the statement said.

No details were announced on the agreements reached.

Discussions have centered on the bank's proposal to manage the idle Iranian oil industry temporarily until a final settlement of the operation dispute.

Immunity Use Denied For Morris

By LUTHER A. HUSTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A House Judiciary subcommittee voted unanimously Tuesday to withhold from Newbold Morris the power to grant immunity to witnesses and thus compel their testimony in his investigation into corruption in the federal government.

Morris, appearing before the subcommittee earlier said lack of that power would not hamper his investigation.

"I didn't ask for the power," Morris said. "It did not arise in any discussion I had with the President or any other officials."

President Truman announced at his news conference last Thursday that he had instructed all heads of government departments or agencies to make available to Morris any information or records he sought.

OATH POWER
He sent to Congress a proposed resolution which would have given his corruption hunter the power to administer oaths, issue subpoenas and grant immunity from prosecution to witnesses who might decline to give testimony on the ground of possible self-incrimination.

Morris was appointed an assistant attorney general on Feb. 1 and assigned the special task of scouring the federal government of evil-doers. In accepting the appointment he said he hoped to start "a new era of decency."

The Judiciary subcommittee, with Representative Celler (Dem., N. Y.), as chairman, met in executive session Tuesday morning and disapproved the provision for immunity power. Tuesday afternoon it met in executive session with Morris to discuss the question of granting him subpoena powers.

SUBPOENA TALK
Chairman Celler announced that the subcommittee would meet with Morris again for further discussion of the subpoena provision. He said the subcommittee hoped to report to a meeting of the full committee next Tuesday.

Morris said after the afternoon session that he had to have subpoena powers. He needed them to obtain testimony and documents from sources outside the government.

"What can you do if you do not get them," he was asked.

"Well, I could go to the New York Public Library and write an essay for the President on how to clean up the government," he answered.

Ex-Boyle Aide Is Indicted in Income Tax Case

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 10.—(INS). John T. Costello, special assistant to William M. Boyle Jr., when the latter was Democratic national chairman, was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on two charges of income tax evasion. Costello is accused of reporting an income of $14,988 for 1945, whereas his true income allegedly was $21,896. The indictment states he paid a tax of $4,689, whereas he should have paid $8,403. A second count in the true bill alleges Costello reported income of $4,671 for 1946, when his true income was $6,940. The indictment charges he paid taxes of $729 and should have paid $1,277.

Doolittle To Lead Airport Safety Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—President Truman will name Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, famed aviator and World War II hero, to head a special commission to investigate airport safety near big cities, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Announcement of the creation of the new commission is expected Wednesday. Its set-up follows the series of recent air crashes at Elizabeth, N. J.

Doolittle is now a special consultant to the Air Force chief of staff on research and development, and an official of the Shell Oil Co.

Way Cleared To Europe Army, Pact

By HAROLD CALLENDER

New York Times News Service

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The national assembly adopted Tuesday the compromise resolution drafted Saturday giving qualified approval of a European army. The vote was 327 to 287. Twenty Socialists in a total of 107 violated the party's orders by voting against the resolution. Among them was Jules Moch, who was minister of defense when a European army was proposed by the French government.

Premier Edgar Faure will depart Wednesday for Lisbon where in his capacity as minister of finance he is expected to put up to United States officials the problem of financing France's defense contribution.

SOCIALIST RIDERS

The qualifications written into the European army resolution to gain the support of the Socialists were: 1. That no recruiting of German contingents shall take place before ratification of the treaty by the parliaments of the six countries concerned.

2. That incorporation of units in the combined force shall be gradual, as the common authorities are established to direct the army. 3. That the entry of West Germany into a European army shall not be linked with its entry into the North Atlantic Treaty, which is "exclusively defensive" and should contain "only states having no territorial claims."

4. That the French government shall renew its efforts to bring into a European army "other Democratic nations, notably Great Britain."

REMAIN EQUAL

Another provision of the resolution is that French contingents in a European army must always be equal to those of any other nation and that France's contingents shall not exceed her capacity in money or manpower.

The assembly also declared in the resolution that contracts made with West Germany by the Allies should provide guarantees regarding the manufacture of armaments by Germany and the police force it will maintain.

Hiss Bore A Red Card, Writer Says

Fellow Members Of Cell, He Asserts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS)—A Washington writer testified Tuesday that he and Alger Hiss were fellow members of a secret Communist cell in 1933 and 1934 "and had party cards."

Nathaniel Weyl, the witness, testified before the Senate internal security committee. He supported the testimony of Whittaker Chambers which convicted the former State department official of perjury.

"FULL-FLEDGED RED"

Weyl named Hiss, then an assistant counsel in the Agriculture department, as one of a number of what he called "full-fledged Communists." He added:

"They were all members under discipline. All were members, as the statutes of the Communist International provided, and had party cards."

Weyl testified he saw Hiss "on more than two occasions" in clandestine meetings of the cell which he said was composed of government workers. He said Hiss could have attended only if he were a Communist.

SEEKING NEW TRIAL

Hiss, who is serving a five-year prison sentence, is seeking a new trial on the grounds of new evidence. Weyl said if Hiss wins a

Police Answer Call Set Off by Selves

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Marcus Steele was roused before dawn Tuesday by a clatter outside his house. He telephoned the police: "Somebody's trying to break in here. Send some men."

The radio dispatcher called a patrol car operated by Joseph Miller and Albert Marchesa.

"That's no burglar, that's us," the two cops fired back. "We're right there now, trying to deliver a message."

An auto rental agency, managed by Steele, was robbed last week. The message asked him to appear at a hearing for two suspects.

new trial and he is called as a witness he will testify for the prosecution.

Weyl also identified as members of the secret cell seven other persons who have figured in Capitol Hill testimony—Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, Victor Perlo, John Abt, Henry Collins, Charles Kramer, a former member of the Senate labor committee staff, and Harold Ware.

Weyl said that the cell members he named were the same as those named by Chambers before the House un-American activities committee.

Senate Unit Okays McDonald for RFC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Senate banking committee Tuesday approved by a 7-to-3 vote President Truman's nomination of Harry A. McDonald to be administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

The nomination now goes to the Senate for an expected floor battle. It had been bottled up in the banking committee since Jan. 10. Several members had accused the White House of a lack of common sense in naming McDonald to the post while the agency he now heads—the Securities and Exchange Commission—was under a House investigation.

Chairman Maybank (Dem., S. C.), said Senators Douglas (Dem., Ill.), Robertson (Dem., Va.), and Ives (Rep., N. Y.), voted against McDonald Tuesday.

House Unit Acts On GOP Demand

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—The House foreign affairs committee turned down Tuesday a Republican demand on the administration to disclose any secret commitments made by President Truman to Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain.

In closed session the committee disapproved a resolution by Representative Berry (Rep., S. D.) that would direct Secretary of State Acheson to come forward with a full account of Mr. Truman's recent consultations here with Churchill.

"OVERWHELMING" VOTE

The chairman, Representative Richards (Dem., S. C.) called the vote "overwhelming." He would not be more precise.

Richards will go to the House Wednesday to report what was done and seek its approval.

If any substantial Republican effort to overturn the committee's action was in prospect it had not become apparent Tuesday night. The House Republican leadership showed no interest in making an issue of the incident.

Representative Richards will take to the House a thus far unpublished statement from the State department.

He took the view that this should be held in secret until Wednesday.

NO SECRETS, MAYBE

Nevertheless, its substance was understood to be an assurance from the State department that President Truman had made no military commitment, secret or otherwise, to the prime minister. Asked whether the foreign affairs committee had rejected the Berry proposal on the strength of such assurances, Richards declined to answer directly.

"Speaking for myself," he added, "I think it might be pointed out that there is a long line of legal precedents under which the State department could have refused to furnish any information at all. But the State department has in fact submitted a report."

ISSUE SEEMS SETTLED

The fact that the Republicans generally did not seem disposed to come to Berry's assistance made it strongly likely that the committee's action would end the incident.

Richards' comments suggested that at least some of the Republicans on the committee had sided with the Democrats on the principle that it would be better to settle for what information the State department already had given than to risk a possible inconclusive fight between the House and the executive branch of the government.

Student Death From Bullet Puzzles Police

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Feb. 19—An autopsy report disclosed Tuesday a brilliant Williams College student died of a bullet wound but left unanswered whether he was slain or committed suicide in a campus fraternity house.

Police Chief George A. Royal said an autopsy showed that Millard Romaine Jr., 20-year-old scion of a wealthy Cincinnati, Ohio, family, died of a bullet head wound in a spare bedroom of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house. Until the autopsy was performed by state pathologist Arthur E. O'Dea, Royal said, officials were not certain exactly what caused the honor sophomore's death.

Meanwhile, Dist. Atty. Stephen A. Moynahan questioned school officials and students in an attempt to piece together events that may shed some light on the mysterious shooting. Moynahan sought to determine whether Romaine took his own life or met death at the hands of another.

Romaine's body was found on a daybed with his hands folded on his chest and his legs dangling over the edge.

The death weapon, a .22 caliber rifle, was half hidden beneath a carpet. Police said the gun belonged to another student, John A. Hall of Wellesley, who claimed it was unloaded the last time he saw it.

Romaine's roommates, Thomas S. Henderson of Hamilton, Ohio, and Stephen M. Herman of Evanston, Ill., said they last saw Romaine Sunday at their dormitory and that he appeared in good spirits. He lived at the dormitory but took his meals at the fraternity house.

The Cabinet Room at No. 10 Downing Street is equipped with double doors and the windows have double sashes to balk would-be listeners.

Alabama Judges Sign Party Oath They Held Invalid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 19—Two circuit judges have signed the Democratic Party regularity oath that they held unconstitutional for presidential electors.

J. Russell McElroy and Whit Windham of Birmingham took the pledge in filing with the secretary of state as candidates for renomination in the May 6 primary.

Eight other judges in the same judicial circuit (Jefferson County) also qualified during the day and likewise committed themselves to support the regular Democratic presidential nominee in the November general election.

Although McElroy and Windham ruled the loyalty pledge invalid for prospective presidential electors, their decision said nothing about candidates for other offices. The only legal question before them was Edmund Blair's attempt to run for elector without signing the oath.

Thus when they submitted their own qualification papers, they agreed to the pledge. The elector decision has since been appealed to the State Supreme Court.

Chiang, Japanese Envoys Tackle Treaty Problems

By HENRY R. LIEBERMAN

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TAIPEH, Formosa, Feb. 19—Top Chinese Nationalist and Japanese delegates presented their credentials Tuesday at a preliminary meeting designed to pave the way for the opening of full-dress negotiations here on a bilateral Sino-Japanese peace treaty. The conference is scheduled to begin officially at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

The legations are headed respectively by George Yeh, Chinese Nationalist foreign minister, and Isao Kowada, a former finance minister in Japan. Kowada, who also once served as head of the Taiwan (Formosa) Development Corporation while this rich island was part of Japan's now-vanished overseas empire, arrived here from Tokyo Sunday.

SOME FAVOR REDS

The discussions will open here against the background of the San Francisco peace treaty with Japan and Premier Shigeru Yoshida's Dec. 24 letter to John Foster Dulles, architect of the San Francisco pact. In that letter Yoshida stated that his government was prepared to negotiate a bilateral treaty with the Nationalists that would be "applicable to all territories which are now, or which may hereafter be under control of the national government of the Republic of China."

It is clear that the Japanese delegation, in preparing to negotiate with the Chinese Nationalists, is still not unmindful of the desire among various groups back home to establish trade relations with Communist China.

THREE POINTS

The preliminary sparring already has focused attention on three fundamental points that are scheduled to come up for discussion between the Japanese and a Chinese government that fought them from a mainland expanse it no longer controls. These points include:

1. An exact title of the projected treaty. The word "peace," it is pointed out, involves both the intent and nature of the treaty insofar as it must be applied in relation to a war that affected all of China.

2. The scope of the treaty. This involves the whole question of the exact territories to be covered by the pact. It also involves the Nationalists' legal claim to Formosa and the Pescadores as former Japanese territories.

3. The actual date when the Sino-Japanese war began. Was it the Mukden incident of Sept. 18, 1931, which led to the Japanese absorption of Manchuria? Was it the Marco Polo Bridge incident of July 7, 1937, which marked the spread of war throughout China? Or was it Dec. 9, 1941, when China formally

Red Links Capitalism With Blood Pressure

LONDON, Feb. 19—A Soviet scientist Tuesday night linked high blood pressure with "capitalist countries" and said things are so good in Russia the ailment will eventually disappear there.

Prof. F. Andreyev, a Stalin prize winner, said in a Moscow radio broadcast that high blood pressure was especially prevalent in the United States and blamed it mostly on "war hysteria which is being inflamed by the monopolists."

But in the Soviet Union, he added, "all the necessary conditions are provided for prevention of the disease—every worker has no anxiety for his future, has the right to periods of rest, treatment and security in his old age."

declared war on Japan, Germany and Italy?

The issue of the date is related to such questions as moral responsibility and the Chinese Nationalist claims to reparations. It also is related to the legal status of Manchuria.

Southern Railway Handling Of Negroes on Diners Okayed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission Tuesday approved the present practices of the Southern Railway in seating and serving white and Negro passengers in its dining cars.

With this action, the commission dismissed a new complaint by Elmer W. Henderson, Washington Negro, that the railroad had continued to discriminate against his race despite a Supreme Court ruling of 1950 against a racial segregation on railroad diners.

The ICC split 7 to 4 in ordering the dismissal. Speaking for the minority, Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison said that Southern's current seating plan "is of the character condemned by the Supreme Court."

The railroad regulations include "a suggestion" to dining car stewards that when travelers enter the car singly, women will be seated with women, men with men, young people with young people, elderly persons with elderly persons, whites with whites and Negroes with Negroes. The written instructions also provide that the seating of white passengers shall start at one end of the car and the seating of Negroes at the other, but also stipulates that "no passenger seeking dining car service during the meal hour shall be refused such service when there is a vacant seat in the diner."

By All Means, Let's Study Home Rule!

For many years we have supported the principle of home rule for Georgia cities and counties, believing that local problems should be decided by the people whom they affect. There seems little sense in having the State Legislature and the voters of Georgia decide, for instance, whether the city limits of Smyrna or Ty Ty are to be extended.

We realize, of course, that a municipality must receive its operating charter from the state. However, upon this outline, the voters in any given locality should be given authority to amend the charter, and city governing bodies should be allowed to run their own fiscal affairs.

We are, therefore, pleased that Atlanta's City Council has created a nine-member committee to study the possibilities for home rule for Atlanta. Even though the move toward home rule is coming about as a result of displeasure of council with the Assembly bills affecting Atlanta, we think it proper that all phases of the home rule possibilities be looked into and, if home rule is found feasible, that a plan be presented for action.

Concerning the argument, we agreed with the legislators on most of the measures adopted by the Assembly for Atlanta. Certainly the reduction in the size of the council will make for more efficiency and teamwork in running the government. In amending the city's charter in this manner, the method employed was the only one available.

There are arguments against Atlanta's adopting the kind of home rule now available to all cities in Georgia. The principal objections are based around the fear that it would result in a multiplicity of elections. Whether this is a valid argument or not is open to question, since the bill provides that council can call an election on matters it deems necessary, but that a petition from 30 per cent of the registered voters is required to force one.

Whether the bill is practical for Atlanta should be determined by this council committee after careful study of the legal, political, and other implications to the city as a whole. If deemed impractical after careful study, then Atlantans can achieve home rule by a revision of the city charter or by adoption of a new city charter by the State Legislature as prepared by the Fulton and DeKalb delegations with these provisions therein.

In any event, we believe the people should be given all possible latitude in expressing opinion at the voting booths on matters affecting them.

In commending council's action for home rule study, Mayor Hartsfield is quoted as saying, "The only thing is that council should have been studying it a couple of years ago." Regardless of the motives prompting the study now, it is a good thing.

Extending this home-rule business from the city to the county levels should be the next step in giving localities a full measure of self-government. Matters which affect citizens of a small unit certainly should be left to that unit. This would result in more democratic rule.

We have seen examples in the recent session of the legislature. Local legislation has been passed which did not represent the majority opinions of those communities affected. This has resulted in at least two instances of the legislators requesting vetoes of bills they guided into law.

spontent Oatis is still being held after more than a year on trumped-up spy charges.

In both instances, the Red bandits used the well-known Communist tactics of blackmail to gain advantages for themselves—and our submission was a damaging blow to United States prestige. We cannot tolerate any further such incidents.

Throughout the world the Reds have resorted to similar methods. American nationals are humiliated and hounded in every Communist-run country.

The State department wants to continue diplomatic relations with Hungary and with other Iron Curtain nations for obvious reasons. The U. S. needs whatever contacts it can maintain in order to keep itself as informed as possible about Red moves and intentions. However, the humiliating prospect of continuing to pay blackmail for this privilege cannot be tolerated forever.

Unless drastic measures are taken, we doubt that these outrages will cease.

Beef Goes Up, Mule Price Down

"The deal was concluded, one pair of mules for one cow and $25."

What's more — each man was happy over it.

So writes Hi Herbert in his Corral Comment column in The Americus Times-Recorder.

This South Georgia rancher goes on to say:

"The mules were worth, admittedly, about $150. The cow was worth about the same. Hence, the two men traded in front of the service station."

"In broader terms, this small trade between two men in a small Georgia town was the same as declaring: the old economy of the South is over. When one common cow is worth as much as two mules, able to work a crop, then a great change has been wrought."

Yes, a change has been wrought and it is for the better. The tractor has about shoved the mule off the farm as a day laborer. There's a limited market for muleburger in Georgia, but the demand for beef rises.

That is why, as the Americus ranchman points out, common yearling steers sold on a Southern market at 33-36 cents on the hoof and on the same day mules sold at 10 cents a pound, their destiny, dogmeat and fertilizer.

A Senator Looks at Origin of High Prices

Sen. Paul Douglas states a fear that is widespread among those who know what inflation is made of. High prices are not inflation. They are a result of it, one symptom of a disease caused by too much money turned loose, whether by income, borrowing or government spending. This is why the senator has his reservations about the nomination of James Lewis Robertson, 19 years an employee of the Treasury department, to the Federal Reserve Board.

The Treasury, standing for low interest rates (cheap money and therefore more money), has been opposed by the Reserve Board's idea to hold down borrowing (which creates new money) by keeping rates higher and by letting government securities find their level. Now that a man steeped in the Treasury point of view is named to the Reserve Board, Senator Douglas is worried lest the latter is about to be taken over and the debate settled in favor of the cheap-money argument.

The subject is a little fine and theoretical for the man on the street. It is too bad that he is not, and probably will not be, worked up about it. Mr. Robertson's nomination is approved by the Senate banking subcommittee. Senator Douglas not voting. But the senator's remarks are worth while if as nothing more than a lesson in the economics of inflation.

'Old Glummy' Learns the Why of Nickname But Still Has More Complaints Pending

Atlanta—I asked the man next door why everybody called me "Old Glummy."

"Well, Glummy, I'll give it to you straight," he says. "You never agree with anyone. You walk around the street with a piece of crepe in your hand and your pockets full of gripes."

"You gripe about the way Truman is running things in Washington; how Herman is running our state government; how our lawmakers threw bills in the hopper up at the State House."

"You don't want to tax a man or woman for living as they like. You don't want a pay-as-you-ride road with a nice picket fence on each side to keep the cows off and so the tourists can go on through without stopping in Georgia. You don't want a man to have a liquor store until he has been to war and been shot."

Well, that gave me something to think about. But I still have a few more things to tell the man next door such as why one man pays $3.50 for an auto tag while his neighbor with the same make and model pays less.

The Year We Lost 11 Days

Atlanta—February has been rightly acclaimed the "Birthday Month," since a number of our celebrities connected with the upbuilding of our glorious country were born in this month.

There is Thomas A. Edison, the "Light Bringer," born on the 11th; Abraham Lincoln, the "Great Emancipator," born on the 12th; and the illustrious George Washington, known as the "Father of His Country," whose birthday we celebrate on the 22nd.

As regards George Washington's birthday, I would like to remind you that the Gregorian calendar now in use in the United States was imposed by the government of Great Britain on all of its possessions, including the American colonies, in 1752. The British decreed that the day following Sept. 2, 1752 should be called Sept. 14—a loss of 11 days. Inasmuch as Mr. Washington was born on Feb. 11, 1732, after the year 1752 his birthday anniversary fell on Feb. 22. The Gregorian calendar set up to reform the Julian calendar was introduced by Pope Gregory XIII in 1582.

It is interesting to note Nov. 19, 1952, will mark the 200th anniversary of our adoption of the Gregorian calendar.

Still Waiting for 'Paid-in-Full' Receipt

Atlanta—I agree to disagree with Senator Connally, Texas, on breaking ties with Hungary before we tighten the knots around their necks. We are still waiting for a paid-in-full receipt on our aviators. We have yet to mail them a statement for the ransom collected when they "broke the bank" at Washington.

Why Not Reverse This Procedure?

Decatur—We have been told by other nations unless we help them, they will go Communist. Why don't we inform them that unless they co-operate with us, we will turn them over to the Communists.

It would be interesting to see their reaction.

Are We Returning To 'Royalty Rot'?

Alto—We have made 10,000 times more fuss over the death of a distant English king than we have over an American who so nobly gave his life beyond the call of duty to save our worthless hides. Our rugged forefathers fought two bitter wars to get away from this royalty rot. Are we not, like the Contempts did in the Scriptures, returning to it?

"Man asks divorce from wealthy wife who allowed him only $1.00 per week for spending."—News item.

King or president or peasant... life is never wholly pleasant... pleasures call but duties beckon... so it is with all, I reckon... though we think life would be sunny... if we had the time and money... to indulge our whims and fancies... well we know as time advances... all men have to work since Adam... had that first date with his madam.

Work is what a man is made for... and to see that things are paid for... though not many have enjoyed it... there are less who can avoid it... call it sweat or perspiration... or some other appellation... those old glands must keep secreting... if he wants to keep on eating.

But a man and his descendants... should take pride in independence... and rejoice that mind and muscle... help them in the daily tussle... neither monarch, prince nor yeoman... should depend upon his woman... and the man who marries riches... seldom ever wears the "britches."

Farmers Now, Future Assured

As a former farmer and Future Farmer (honorary status, John McEachern Chapter), I always grab a chance to boost the farm youth program. I'll never have a better opportunity than with the case of Bill Williams of Buena Vista, state FFA president. This good-looking country lad is 16, a junior at Marion County High School and a member of the Marion County FFA chapter.

In the literal sense of the term, Bill is no future farmer. He's already an active member of the profession. His father died when the son was 5. Since then, the mother and her three boys—Turner, who lives at Ellaville; Charlie, a veterinarian at Rome and Bill Williams himself a former state FFA president, and now Bill—have run the 1,800-acre Williams place.

The youngest son can't remember when first he took the wheel of the tractor. He does recall the day when the farm stabled and fed 25 mules. Now the place is a one-mule establishment—one mule, two tractors and a saddle horse for young Squire. ("A boy, old mule sold for 85 cents at Americus the other day," Bill told me when we were discussing farm mechanization. Until someone comes along with a better story, that's a new low for Georgia.)

Bill gives the vocational agriculture-FFA program credit for a change on the family homestead. The row crops—cotton and corn and peanuts—have been nudged over to make room for livestock—purebred hogs and dairy cattle—and winter grazing, permanent pastures. This 16-year-old has in his own name 15 black Poland China pigs, some dairy cattle, half interest in a thoroughbred bull and 20 acres of winter grass. In FFA he has achieved the third degree, Georgia Planter, and has his sights set on the top rank, American Farmer.

Gene Aiken, 17-year-old Newton County farmer and FFA treasurer for Georgia, is a Georgia Planter, too, carrying out on a smaller acreage in Yellow River country the same progressive practices that have taken over on the Williams acres in Marion.

The two took time from crops and classes this week to come to the Capital City and plug FFA Week on television. Theirs was a creditable performance, for the project of which they are a part teaches leadership and platform presence as well as tractor repair and fertilizer formula.

But the boys have "dirt in the shoes." As the saying goes, and there's not a chance that they'll switch from lupine, lespedeza and vetch to video.

How are you going to keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen TV? There's no problem with boys like these.

They know what they want. They know that farming is a good life. They've seen the power lines and the tractors, the automatic washers and the electric pumps come to the farm. They know you can have all this and TV, too, and still stay sons of the soil.

Berlin, a Test Of Man's Nerves

BERLIN—The spiritual gloom, the rather whispering atmosphere of Berlin under the Russian guns is not easily conveyed to you because there is also an uncanny gaiety or bravado in the bearing of the Americans stationed here. A visiting journalist irritated some of the American garrison by remarking that the officers were living on a high suburban scale. But that observation is more a compliment than a reproach. Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, the American commander, a parachutist, lives in a large house built by some vanished German rich man. Mrs. Mathewson and their three young daughters are with him, and the general argues that if the Americans were to ship out their families, the effect on the spirit of the Germans would be very bad. Yet if the Russians should strike suddenly, as our military plans assume they may, some of these women and children would be killed and others would be hauled in trucks or driven afoot into the black mystery of the East.

This test of nerves the Americans have withstood with honor to themselves and their country.

It is strange that even in a few hours one rallies and puts aside the awful realities of this ruin. No longer sensitive to deep pain as each turning of a corner brings some additional example of civilized man's reversion to barbarism, I was nevertheless stunned by the ruins in Berlin wherever the eye might glance. Questions of blame or guilt were evasive quibbles in the disaster that civilized man had wrought upon the cities which were the greatest material monuments of his civilization.

I found myself studying faces on the streets. These Germans in our sector of the city and in the British and French sectors are now officially certified to have been innocent of nazism or to have been cured of mild infections. We are waging an official political campaign to teach them that "democracy" is the ultimate, the ideal way of life.

But our fanaticism is comparable to that of the Nazis, who imposed compulsory national socialism with equal bigotry and fervor, and an intellectual, subject people may have mental reservations as they did when they gave lip service to Hitler

Reds Draft Purge of Czech Jews

Science, Culture
To Feel Sting

By JACK RAYMOND

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 19.—A Communist purge of Jews and "bourgeois objectivists" from scientific and other cultural fields in Czechoslovakia is expected to begin shortly, according to reliably informed experts on current Czech affairs. These experts, who are associated with Radio Free Europe here, have been assembling material from monitored official Czech sources, as well as private advices obtained from refugees who have crossed the border into Germany.

Radio Free Europe is a private broadcasting station, established here by the Committee for Free Europe. It devotes itself largely to sending anti-Communist broadcasts into Czechoslovakia and Hungary, and has been unusually successful in obtaining responses from those countries.

BIG SHOW TRIAL

The impending anti-semitic purge was disclosed by Radio Prague, which announced "a congress against cosmopolitanism and bourgeois objectivism in science" to be held in Brno, Feb. 27 to March 1.

"Cosmopolite" is accepted generally as a Communist euphemism for Jews, first initiated in articles and broadcasts in the Soviet Union and adopted by the satellite countries. "Bourgeois objectivists" are those who do not pattern their scientific conclusions to the Communist Party theoretical line.

The experts of Radio Free Europe, co-ordinating the material from official Czech sources with advices of their own, also expressed belief that the Prague government is probably in the final stages of preparing a big show trial against Wladimir Clementis, Rudolf Slansky and other deposed leaders.

NO ROOTS

According to a Radio Prague broadcast monitored here, 700 university scientific workers, representatives of research units, military and medical leaders have been invited to the Brno congress.

The program, in which Vacek Kopecky, minister of information and education, will deliver the main address, includes the following topics: Ideological purification and renaissance of Czechoslovakian science, revision of teaching in schools, and discussion of techniques for applying the thoughts of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin systematically in scientific work. Kopecky's subject will be "cosmopolitanism, proletarian internationalism and socialist patriotism."

There have been previous Communist denunciations of "cosmopolites." Radio Free Europe officials pointed out, notably those by Premier Antonin Zapotocky who has inveighed against "cosmopolites and others who have no roots in the native soil."

Apartments, Homes Seized By Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 19.—Hungary took another major step towards complete state ownership Tuesday by nationalizing privately owned apartment houses and a big category of homes.

A decree from the Communist government said that all houses owned by "capitalists, other exploiting elements and members of the former oppressive class" whether inhabited by the owners or rented, would be taken over by the state.

Hungarian industry has been government-run for a long time. As in the case of confiscation of industry, the state promised former apartment and house owners they would be compensated. The rate of compensation has not been fixed but will be announced later, the decree said.

U. S. legation officials said the new order affects 50 houses owned by American citizens. The decree does not apply to houses under six rooms owned by manual or white collar workers, retired people, retail merchants, artisans and peasants.

Property of a foreign state also is exempt but the decree does apply to houses owned by individual foreigners.

Not only the house but furniture and other movable goods were ordered nationalized if the houses are owned by a "capitalist" who does not live in the dwelling permanently.

AF Probing Saucers in Korea Sky

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Air Force disclosed Tuesday that it has ordered a full-scale investigation of reports that objects resembling "flying saucers" have been sighted in Korea by crewmen of two American B-29 bombers.

An Air Force spokesman said four fliers described the objects as disc-shaped, bright orange in color and sending off occasional flashes of bluish light. Two of the fliers were said to have estimated the discs were about three feet in diameter.

In the past, the Air Force has discounted widespread reports of "flying saucers" or "discs."

CREWMEN REPORT

The reports from the United States crewmen were sent to top officials here through regular military intelligence channels.

The first report was submitted to Air Force intelligence officers from two crewmen of a B-29 bomber who said they saw the object flying parallel to their plane at about midnight the night of Jan. 29. The plane was over Wonsan, Korea.

The same night, a B-29 from a different squadron returned to its base after a flight over Suncheon, Korea, some distance from Wonsan. Two crewmen said they saw flying discs moving along side their plane at a high altitude. The time also was at about midnight.

5-MINUTE STAY

"The objects remained with the B-29 over Wonsan for five minutes and with the B-29 over Suncheon for one minute," the Air Force said.

Bought Beating To Melt Wife

DES MOINES, Feb. 19.—William A. Roach, 26-year-old cab driver, figured that his former wife would come back to him if she saw him writhe in pain. It didn't work.

Roach, who earlier told police a fare had beaten him unconscious "for no reason at all," admitted to detectives Tuesday that he hired a man to beat him up.

"I thought maybe my former wife would come to the hospital to see me with the devil beaten out of me and maybe we could have a chance for a reconciliation," Roach said.

His face was badly battered and both eyes were swollen shut after the beating.

Detectives had called Mrs. Roach to come to the hospital but she said she couldn't make it.

New —
For the man who asks a fine car to add
life to living

Today... for the few who demand far more of their cars than transportation... for the few who are bored by ostentation... for the few who seek the best of modern motoring that most of today's drivers never know... there is Lincoln for 1952—increasingly new, visibly superior, excitingly spirited to drive.

Daring to break with tradition, Lincoln disproves the old-fashioned concept that a fine car need be awkward, ponderous, unwieldy. Here at last is a magnificent automobile designed to fit the American Road today—simple, graceful, easy to handle. Here, too, is the all-new 160-horsepower overhead valve V-8 engine—smoothly powerful, responsive, thrifty—with more power than you may ever need—and the automatic magic of Hydra-Matic Transmission, standard equipment on every Lincoln Cosmopolitan and Capri.

Come in and see the new concept—the new spirit—of fine car motoring, in our showroom:

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. White side-wall tires, when available, optional at extra cost.

Poles, Fire Plugs Brave 'Ire' of Atlanta Drivers

Atlanta drivers evidently have declared war on fixed objects such as utility poles and fire plugs, Traffic Supt. T. J. Sikes said.

In January, Sikes said, two persons were killed when autos rammed into fixed objects, 23 others were injured and 61 vehicles were badly damaged. Such crashes accounted for 86 accidents, or 10 per cent of all accidents in the city, Sikes added.

In a similar period last year, there were no deaths resulting from fixed object crashes, only 10 persons were injured, 22 vehicles were damaged and the accident total was 32.

Sikes blamed the "wide open spaces" in newly annexed territory as well as speed for the sudden upsurge in fixed object auto mishaps. He pointed out motorcycle traffic officers are being shifted from congested areas to meet the new safety threat.

"The drivers get up too much speed and then find they are unable to make a curve and crash into a utility pole or fire plug," Sikes declared. "Or else they hit a dip or rough spot in the street and that makes them lose control of the car."

"We try to keep enforcement within reason... but the drivers must be reasonable, too."

Fire-Fighting Demonstration Slated at Tech

A two-hour fire-fighting demonstration on the Georgia Tech campus Monday, March 3, will be one of the highlights of the 13th annual Southern Safety Conference and Exposition scheduled for Atlanta March 2, 3, and 4.

A demonstration building set up on the campus at Fowler and Tenth Streets will be set afire to test automatic fire detection systems, and the Atlanta Fire Department will demonstrate newest fire-fighting techniques and equipment in extinguishing the blaze.

Dale Medsker, area superintendent of the safety engineering division of the National Surety Corporation, is in charge of the fire-prevention and fire-fighting section of the conference.

Sutton Link With Brinks Raid Sought

Pleads Innocent To $64,000 Holdup

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—FBI agents Tuesday tried to link Willie Sutton to the $150,000 Brinks robbery in Boston after the master criminal who police say is "without peer" in the underworld, pleaded innocent to a $64,000 New York bank holdup.

Sutton, a thin little man, entered court on tiptoe. A burly guard had a grip on the back of his waistband and almost lifted Sutton off the floor as he directed him into the crowded courtroom.

BEST ESCAPE ARTIST

At least 18 detectives, three uniformed police and five prison guards were assigned to the courtroom for Sutton's hearing on the New York charge. Aside from raving him the smartest criminal in the nation, police say his three prison breaks prove he is the world's best escape artist.

Looking tired and harried, Sutton pleaded innocent to leading a gang that took $64,000 from the Manufacturers Trust Co., Long Island City, in 1950. The bank manager and another employee identified Sutton as the robber Monday night after he was caught in a Brooklyn street while changing his automobile battery rather than pay $1.50 to have it done.

QUIZ ON BRINK JOB

Sutton faces close questioning by FBI men from Washington and other law enforcement agents concerning the Brinks robbery and other crimes.

But, whether he is convicted of the Brinks holdup or the New York robbery, authorities have enough against Sutton to keep him imprisoned for the rest of his life.

Philadelphia authorities want Sutton for breaking out of prison there in 1947 while serving a 25 to 50-year term for bank robbery. But New York has first claim on him because Sutton sawed his way out of an "escape proof" cell at Sing Sing in 1932 where he was serving a term for jewel theft.

Moore Says Homes Offer World Hope

The Christian home is the base and the hope of civilization. Bishop Arthur J. Moore Tuesday night told nearly 2,000 Methodists attending the Atlanta districts' Family Life Institute at the Peachtree Road Church.

Keynoting the institute, which is designed to disseminate information for wholesome family living, the Methodist leader also listed what he termed the four most important threats to family life:

"The disassociation of marriage with religion . . . fathers shirking their responsibility as the priest of the home . . . exchange of motherhood for trivial outside affairs by women . . . and the attack of secularism on the traditional family circle."

The bishop said "perhaps the most serious challenge" faced by religion today "is from the disintegration of home life."

The institute is designed to give to each individual church in the area, through representatives to the Tuesday night meeting, a course in "revitalizing family life," a speaker said.

Family Opposites

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 19.—While Mrs. Harry Kendall Koepel Friday was receiving WKY-TV's weekly award for safe and courteous driving, her husband was paying a $6 fine for speeding.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms . . . tiny parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—killing Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P.W. Vermicide . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Sutton 'Black Sheep' Baffles Willie's Mom

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The 73-year-old mother of bank robber Willie Sutton told Tuesday of the heartbreak that a criminal son can cause.

Mrs. Mary Sutton, white-haired and tiny, said:

"It's such a terrible thing for a mother—three children, two of them wonderful and never in trouble in their lives and the other one in trouble all these years."

"I just can't understand it."

She sat in the Brooklyn flat which she shares with the other two children and looked over the papers telling of Willie's arrest Monday.

"Oh, my God," she moaned. "Now the neighbors will know. The one thing we've been afraid of is they'd find out I'm Willie Sutton's mother."

Mrs. Sutton said she hasn't seen Willie in 17 years and hasn't heard from him in five or six years. She looked at a newspaper picture of him and said:

"He looks so thin! So wan! Is he all right? Is he healthy? I hope so. Can I see him today, do you think? Where are they keeping him? I'd like to go right now, but my daughter wouldn't like it."

The daughter is Mrs. Raphael Mottola. She, her husband and her brother, James, 54, share the apartment with Mrs. Sutton.

"I can't understand about Willie," the mother said. "As a boy he never got in trouble. It wasn't until he got older—right after he got married."

Somewhere, she said, Willie has a daughter—her only granddaughter, whom she has never seen.

Mrs. Sutton was told that Willie had been living within two miles of her for five years.

"My goodness," she said softly, "and he never got in touch with me."

Welles Given Patterson Post in Freedom House

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Sumner Welles, former under-secretary of state, was elected unanimously Tuesday to succeed the late Robert P. Patterson as President of Freedom House, an organization dedicated to the "one world" principles of the late Wendell L. Willkie.

Patterson, former secretary of war, was killed in an airplane crash in Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 22.

M. F. Brock of Atlanta, flagman and conductor on a Southern Railway freight train, was injured Tuesday when he was knocked from a moving train at Juliette between Macon and Atlanta.

He was brought here by ambulance and was reported in good condition at Crawford Long Hospital.

Brock, who lives at 926 Lawton St., S. W., was reportedly swinging from the rear of the freight car and struck by a loaded pulp-wood car on a nearby track. He was given first aid at the Alexander Clinic before he was transferred to Atlanta.

Westinghouse proudly announces a new high in television performance

A combination of basic technical innovations provide the best television pictures you've ever seen, completely reliable performance, simplified tuning for present and future stations, and power that opens "fringe" areas to real television enjoyment for the first time.

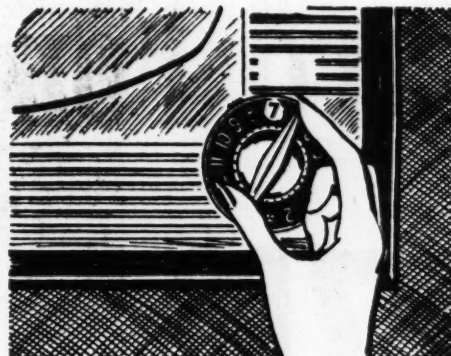

NEW HIGH IN PICTURE CLARITY

Only Westinghouse with Electronic Clarifier gives clear pictures that stay clear. Now still further improved to eliminate all streaks, flutter, flop-over, and other annoying interference, even in fringe areas.

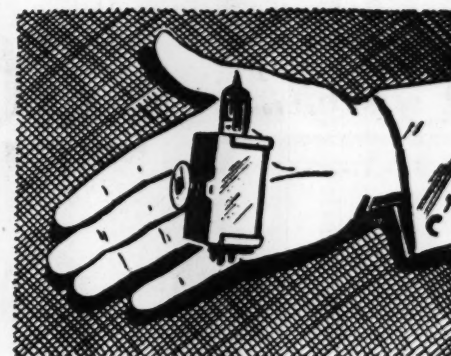

NEW HIGH IN VIEWING COMFORT

No other set is so free from glare. Cylindrical-face tube plus no-glare protective mask means no reflections from any direction. Make the match test at your dealer's today, and see completely glare-free pictures.

NEW HIGH IN TUNING EASE

Exclusive Westinghouse Single Dial Tuning is now provided with twin locks for use in weak-signal areas. So now, even if you live 'way out in the fringe, you get maximum picture control with the easiest, simplest tuning.

NEW HIGH IN UHF ADAPTABILITY

Only Westinghouse offers plug-in simplicity for adding ultra-high-frequency stations as they come on the air. You can do it yourself. Or you can add a built-in all-wave UHF tuner. No extra knobs needed for tuning.

THE new high in performance offered by Westinghouse is made possible by a combination of electronic, mechanical, and optical advances. Among the advantages provided for the first time by Westinghouse are:

- ★ High-sensitivity tuner. New tuner, improved by a 60 db. gain in output, delivers fringe-area pictures of amazing strength and clarity.
- ★ Automatic focus. New electrostatic tubes never need focus adjustment; pictures stay sharp and clear, even when your line voltage drops or surges.

★ Uniform focus. Pictures are perfectly focused over entire face of the tube. Picture clarity is maintained even at the far edges of the tube. No distortion or "pincushion" effect.

★ High-gain audio system. Five times more reserve power makes Westinghouse FM sound system the finest you've ever heard.

Four out of five Westinghouse set owners bought Westinghouse on the advice of a friend who already owned one. That's why we know that if you investigate and compare performance, you too will choose Westinghouse.

32 Candidates Seeking Whitfield County Posts

DALTON, Feb. 19.—Thirty-two candidates have qualified for the March 12 Whitfield County Democratic Primary, Warren M. Sims, secretary of the County Democratic Executive Committee, announces.

Fred C. Cooper, clerk of court, has no opposition, and is the only candidate not opposed.

In the race for county surveyor, no candidates qualified. Incumbent surveyor is R. E. Smith.

Following is the complete list of those who are qualified in the eight campaigns:

Sheriff: Incumbent L. L. Vining and H. P. McArthur Jr.

Commissioner of roads and revenue: Incumbent Tom Patterson, Gordon Kettles, Paul Mitchell, W. M. B. (Mooney) Chitwood, B. H. Kiker, M. V. (Martin) Bailey, C. O. Thompson and B. B. (Buster) Newberry.

County ordinary: Incumbent Ernest McDonald, Sanford P. Carr Jr., W. L. (Preacher) Williams and Paul H. Field.

Clerk of superior court: Incumbent Fred C. Cooper.

Tax collector: J. Cleve Faith, Paul A. Stevenson, Robbie Griffin, Mrs. Marshall Westbrook, Gerald R. (Pat) Patterson and John D. Anderson.

Superintendent of county schools:

H. D. Ellis, Albert Hair Davis and E. Guy Davis. (Incumbent H. P. McArthur Jr. is a candidate in the sheriff's race.)

Tax receiver: Incumbent Jim Bowman, P. D. Clark, Fred Puryear, Jim Higgins and Wayland A. Swain.

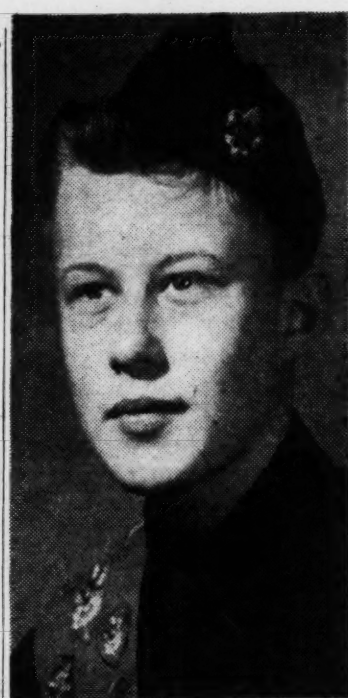

County coroner: Incumbent Sandy F. Armstrong, W. Oscar Hall and W. E. Burch.

Tax Visits Begin In Whitfield

Special to The Constitution

DALTON, Feb. 19.—Tax receiver Jim Bowman is visiting Whitfield County rural districts for the purpose of receiving tax assessments, and urges property owners to make their returns early for the benefit of receiving personal property and homestead exemptions.

Tax books will open in the county courthouse here until April 1, and city and rural property owners may list their property assessments there.

Dr. W. B. Taylor Dies at Dexter; Rites Wednesday

Constitution State News Service
DUBLIN, Feb. 19.—Funeral services for Dr. W. B. Taylor, retired physician and businessman, who died Monday at his home in Dexter, will be held Wednesday morning at the Dexter Baptist Church.

The Rev. C. E. Vines and the Rev. Dr. R. D. Hodges will officiate, and burial will be in Northview cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Dexter Baptist Church from 9:30 until 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Dr. Taylor, 85, a native of Washington County, made his home in Dexter for the past 60 years. He was a graduate of the Georgia Medical School in Augusta and did post graduate work in New York and Atlanta. He was a member of the Dexter Masons and was awarded a 50-year Masonic pin. Dr. Taylor was also a member of the Dexter Baptist Church, a former Laurens County commissioner and state representative.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. J. D. Lane, Dexter; Mrs. John S. Harrison of Harrison; Mrs. E. J. Woodard, Rentz; Mrs. Clayton Nicholson and Miss Ruth Taylor, Dexter; and Mrs. J. W. Phelps Jr., Atlanta; one son, Loomis Taylor, Dexter; two sisters, Mrs. W. E. Bedingfield and Mrs. A. E. Hadden, Rentz; 12 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

NEW EAGLE—ELBERTON, Feb. 19.—Peyton S. Hawes Jr., son of State Senator Peyton S. Hawes, has been awarded the Eagle Scout badge at ceremonies here.

Truck Wheel Hits, Damages Auto

Constitution State News Service

ALBANY, Feb. 19.—A dual truck wheel came loose from a dump truck downtown last night and bounded ahead of the truck, crashing into the front end of an oncoming car and injuring both vehicles. The truck was operated by James W. Keen, 24, of High Springs, Fla., and the car by Bruce O. Bowen of Muskegon, Michigan.

Laid Pistol Down

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Visitors leave a variety of things behind them in the police station, but janitor Carl Gudmundson thinks one Saturday night visitor topped them all. He left a revolver lying on the station steps.

Swine Producers Warned Of High Losses in State

ATHENS, Feb. 19.—Georgia ranks high among other states in producing hogs, but we still have much to learn about reducing hog losses, according to R. O. Williams, extension livestock specialist, who spoke to farmers and agricultural workers attending the first annual swine growers day on the College of Agriculture campus Tuesday.

Williams said Georgia marketed 1,414,000 hogs in 1950, and latest figures available indicate this state ranks ninth in the nation in hog numbers.

In warning of losses through improper production practices, and improper marketing procedures, Williams stated that losses from bruises alone in 1950 totaled around $185,000 in Georgia. He added that 85 per cent of the pork livers produced in Georgia are lost or condemned by packers, and this represents a $650,000 loss annually.

W. C. McCormick, specialist at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station, stressed the need for pastures in efficient hog production, and he said, "Good pastures can save 10 to 20 per cent of the grain normally required for fattening hogs."

What this Statement Does Not Show

THIS FINANCIAL STATEMENT—Liberty National's report to the holders of its $3 million policies—while made up of some big figures—does NOT tell the whole story. It does not show the "double duty" performed by Liberty National dollars. In the most important sense, these funds represent the resources which serve to guarantee that obligations to policyowners will be met faithfully and promptly. In addition, until the funds are paid over to policyowners, they are loaned to people and businesses who have need for the funds and consist of over 13,500 individual mortgage loans on homes, apartments and commercial buildings—bonds issued by electric, gas, telephone and water utility companies—loans to railroads and industrial companies of all types—bonds issued by the Federal Government, the states, counties and cities—and real estate held both for investment and Company use. Life Insurance dollars have played an important part in the growth and development of the nation.

Casey Insists Ships Deals Took Only Free Enterprise

other three of the eight tankers had brought profits totaling $450,000 from the $1,000 that had been invested previously by three persons who had taken a chance on tanker operations, being lucrative.

TIED TO MORRIS

The attorney who managed this transaction, according to committee records, was Houston A. Wasson of New York, a law partner of Newbold Morris who recently was brought to Washington by Attorney General McGrath, with President Truman's blessing, to seek out and abolish monkey-business in government operations.

Morris, the records at this point emphasize, is president and a trustee of the China International Foundation, Inc., a Chinese organization working for student aid and bearing a charity status.

It was recorded in Tuesday's testimony that the foundation finally acquired a controlling interest in the common-stock earnings—some $200,000—of the three surplus tankers whose operations supplemented those of the five that earned a profit of $2,800,000 while working for Standard Oil.

GROUP UNSATISFIED

The committee appeared, however, to be unsatisfied with explanations up to this point. The records indicated, counsel brought out, the sale of the three tankers to the group that brought in the final profit was approved by the former United States Maritime Commission a full day before this group had been incorporated and brought into official being.

Wasson was scheduled to be called as a witness next week. Morris from the start has insisted that his connection with the Chinese foundation and the tankers that have been connected with it had not yielded him a personal dollar.

Casey, in 1949, organized the American Overseas Tanker Corp. Associates included the late Edward R. Stettinius, a wartime secretary of state, Adm. William F. Halsey, Jr., and Julius C. Holmes, minister and counselor at the American embassy at London.

Five of the eight tankers were chartered under a 15-year contract to a Panamanian subsidiary of the original Casey-group company at 88 cent a month a deadweight ton, and then rechartered, at $2.20 a ton to a Standard Oil of New Jersey Panamanian subsidiary under a five-year contract.

9-MILLION LOAN

The $132-a-ton differential put a $9,705,000 loan from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., for ship buying, into a position where it could be paid off in five years. Revenues from the five tankers were applied direct to the Metropolitan Life loan account.

Casey testified Tuesday that both the 88 cents and the $2.20 charter rates were "going rates" in the tanker-transportation industry at that time, with a 15-year charter measured against a five-year one.

What was being overlooked in the recounting of fast-and-big profits, Casey testified, was the fact that at principal issue was a $9,705,000 loan that could not have been negotiated unless those granted it were of character and ability, assuring repayment regardless of how the tanker venture went.

"It was not really a case of $3,250,000 of profits being made fast from $101,000 of original investment," he said. "It is a case of men shouldering the responsibility for a nearly $10,000,000 loan who got little if any more than a 10 per cent profit, over two and a half years out of it all with luck."

The subcommittee went into many deals during its full-day hearing.

It found that the $450,000 of profits from the National Tanker Corp. operations had brought a potential gain of $101,250 to the estate of the late Secretary of State Stettinius, $67,500 to Casey, $45,000 to Holmes, and $22,500 to Admiral Halsey.

Husband Lost In Troup Car Dive to River

LAGRANGE, Feb. 19.—Two Alabama swam to safety while a third disappeared after their rented car plunged off a bridge into the Chattahoochee River in Troup County near here Tuesday.

Troup County Sheriff E. B. Hilyer said the river is being dragged for the body of Horace Harris, who apparently died in the wreck. He identified the other two as Mrs. Ann Harris, wife of Horace, and Emmett Hannah all of near Roanoke, Ala. He said all were in their late 20's and the Harris were only recently married.

Hilyer said Mrs. Harris and Hannah were treated at City-County hospital and released to a hospital in Roanoke. They apparently were not hurt seriously, he added.

Hilyer said the three rented the car, a late model black sedan, in Macon, and were traveling to their home near Roanoke, when the car left the bridge about 4 a. m. Tuesday. He said they apparently were speeding and failed to make a curve on the bridge approach, plunging into shallow water near the river bank.

An unidentified man coming to work Tuesday morning, Hilyer said, noticed part of the car protruding from the water and investigated. He found Mrs. Harris and Hannah on the bank but could find no trace of Harris.

Hilyer said law officers and local citizens had joined in the search for Harris' body.

Individual Holds Success of UMT, Kiwanians Hear

The attitude of the individual will determine whether universal military training is a success, John R. Richards, assistant to the Secretary of the Army, told the Atlanta Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

"Universal training will necessarily interrupt career patterns which affect national economy upon which national defense is based. Whether it is merely an interruption or a disruption is going to depend on the attitude of the individuals," he explained. These attitudes, he said, will be influenced by homes, churches and schools.

Richards, one-time assistant dean of the School of Liberal Arts at Pennsylvania State College, conferred with Dr. John E. Ivey Jr., director of Southern Regional Education, before returning to Washington Tuesday night.

strong, Texas millionaire, had visited the college in November, 1950.

Armstrong is a self-styled anti-Jewish, anti-Negro philanthropist. Three years ago Jefferson Military College of Natchez, Miss., rejected his offer of a $50 million endowment to be made contingent upon limiting enrollment to "white Christians" and requiring that "constitutional government be taught."

MASS MEETINGS

Piedmont's acceptance of the first grant last January, was followed by mass meetings of alumni, students and faculty. English Instructor H. E. Bowen protested the grant at a student meeting. Bowen claimed that President James E. Walter later declined to renew his contract on charges of "insubordination."

After the student disturbances last spring, the Board of Trustees which already had accepted the grant appointed a committee to investigate the matter further.

COMMITTEE CONCURS

All five members of this committee concurred Tuesday when a letter from the committee chairman was read asking the board to continue to accept the money "as long as it is administered by Piedmont College officials."

IN STRAITS

Board Chairman A. T. Cline of Toccoa told newsmen after the closed meeting that the school is in financial straits and since no strings are attached to the grant the board could see no reason to refuse it.

GERALD CHAIRMAN

The committee investigating the grant consisted of Sumner Gerald, chairman of Birmingham, Ala.; Frank H. Gabrels of Clarksville; Ben Singleton, Greenville, S. C.; T. L. Cosby of LaGrange, Ill., and Claude Purcell of Atlanta.

Miss Wilkins, in a prepared statement, said she could not in "good conscience remain on the board" because of the board's decision to accept the grant from the TEA.

In Georgia, Gen. George Van Horn Mosely, retired, former chairman of the America First Committee, is in charge of TEA funds.

50-50 Chance Given Boy Who Ate Rat Poison

Three-year-old Harold Arnold was given a 50-50 chance to survive Tuesday by Grady doctors who said he ate a quantity of rat poison Monday.

The boy, son of George W. Arnold Jr., of 1188 Main St., Forest Park, lost consciousness after he swallowed the poison at home. A four-year-old playmate told Arnold that Harold had been eating the jelly-like substance, recently put out by an exterminating company.

In "fair" condition Tuesday was Sandra Lillian Brown, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enel Brown, 1842 Orlando St., S. W., who ate rat poison Friday.

Three-year-old Bruce Alan Ross of 1815 Marbut Ave., S. E., was also admitted to Grady Tuesday after swallowing a quantity of ant

Congress Urged To Speed Work On 4 SE Dams

A new plea for speedy development of the Apalachicola, Chattahoochee and Flint River waterways was taken under advisement by a U. S. House appropriations subcommittee Tuesday.

A Southern delegation including six Georgians asked the subcommittee for money to complete not just one dam, but all four that are planned in the system.

The group supported President Truman's budget request for $11,330,000 for the Jim Woodruff dam and $3,000,000 for the Buford dam. It asked another $3,000,000 to begin construction of an upper Columbia River dam. The fourth dam is contemplated at Ft. Benning.

Georgians appearing before the subcommittee Monday included Rep. E. L. Forrester of Leesburg, A. Gordy Perry of Columbus, Thomas O. Galloway of Gainesville, George Massey of Bainbridge, and L. D. Ewing of Norcross.

$20,000 Set For Atlanta U. Scholarships

Atlanta University has been awarded a $20,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York for scholarships in its School of Library Service, and Morehouse College has received a grant from the fund for the "advancement of education" in scholarships to be awarded "exceptionally able" students under 16½ years of age.

Exact amount of the grant to Morehouse cannot be disclosed, Pres. Benjamin Mays said. But he explained the grant will enable Morehouse to participate in an experimental program launched last year by 11 other institutions which make it practicable for students to complete at least two years of college before reaching draft age.

Morehouse will offer 30 scholarships for the academic year 1952-53 and 30 during 1953-54, Dr. Mays said. The scholarships will range from $373 to $750, based on need of the student.

The $20,000 grant, covering a period of five years, will enable Atlanta University to offer four $500 scholarships and 10 $300 scholarships in the School of Library Service, Pres. Rufus Clement said. He added they would be awarded on a basis of merit to college graduates who desire to earn a master's degree in the field of library service.

The Carnegie Corp. made the grant "in recognition of the outstanding quality of the program in the School of Library Service and because of the acute need for trained Negro librarians throughout the United States and in foreign countries."

The Atlanta University School of Library Service opened in September, 1941, and has awarded 214 degrees. Present head of this school is Dr. Virginia Lacy Jones.

Allowance Table For Deduction of State Sales Tax

Here's the correct table of sales tax allowances you can claim in computing your state income taxes:

For gross incomes less than $1,000 annually, deduct 1.8 per cent.

Incomes $1,000 to $2,000, deduct 1.7 per cent.

Incomes $2,000 to $3,000, deduct 1.4 per cent.

Incomes $3,000 to $5,000, deduct 1.2 per cent.

Incomes $5,000 to $10,000, deduct 1.1 per cent.

Incomes $10,000 to $15,000, deduct 0.9 per cent.

Incomes $15,000 to $20,000, deduct 0.7 per cent.

Incomes $20,000 to $30,000, deduct 0.6 per cent.

Incomes $30,000 to $50,000, deduct 0.5 per cent.

Incomes more than $50,000, deduct 0.4 per cent.

In claiming your sales tax deductions on your state income tax for 1951, deduct the percentage for your earnings only of the final nine months—because the sales tax didn't go into effect until April 1.

The above table is not applicable to federal income tax returns. The federal government will permit you to deduct "a reasonable amount" for state sales tax payments, but declines to provide a table of allowable deductions.

A table published Tuesday was in error.

Lisbon Talks Air Defense Of Germany

appended a protocol stipulating how Germany would be obliged to regard an attack upon the territory of any NATO power as obliging Bonn to aid the victim of such aggression—through the European Defense Community. All other EDC members would be similarly bound but they—France, Italy and the Benelux nations—are already full members of NATO.

Similarly another draft protocol has been drawn up which would call upon NATO members to take action if German territory is attacked. The first protocol would be incorporated in any future EDC treaty. The second would be appended to the North Atlantic Treaty.

ACHESON OPTIMISTIC

Secretary of State Acheson who arrived here Tuesday night indicated a certain amount of optimism when he said agreements reached in London between the Big Three and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer—only some of which were made public—had laid a "firm foundation" for the council session.

The ministers hope to achieve three major agreements here. They want the 14 Allies—now including Greece and Turkey—to concur in the principle that Germany shall be rearmed in a supranational European community force which will be connected with the NATO alliance by a precise system of "cross guarantees."

2 SETS OF TARGETS

They hope that all governments will accept the obligations laid down for them as a result of the temporary council committee studies specifying the amount of financial, manpower and other contributions to be made by each Allied Nation. Two sets of targets have been fixed—one stipulating what is to be accomplished this year and another aimed at for 1954. It is hoped to create about 50 divisions in Western Europe or in immediate reserve, excluding the forces of Greece and Turkey, by the year's end.

Finally, it is anticipated that an understanding can be arrived at providing for a reorganization of NATO and the establishment of a permanent seat for all its organization headquarters.

ATMOSPHERE BRIGHT

The agreement arrived at among the Big Three foreign ministers and Adenauer has definitely brightened the atmosphere here on the eve of the opening session. John J. McCloy and his delegation of American experts from Bonn cancelled their plan to fly to Lisbon and instead have now returned to Germany to work out with Adenauer new details based on the London accord.

Tuesday's most important development was acceptance by the council deputies of the text which will be submitted to the ministers for their approval, stipulating how Germany shall be rearmed and guaranteed. While the proposal agreed to by the deputies will probably be amended before the ministers finally underwrite it on behalf of their governments, it is now substantially in final form.

TRUCE

with a charge that the Allies were stalling again.

A giant stride toward the ever-receding goal was taken Tuesday. The main truce teams agreed on a plan for a post-armistice peace conference. It was the fifth and last item on the truce program.

ANOTHER UN CONCESSION

But the progress was made at the expense of another major Allied concession. The Allies opened the gate to the discussion of all the ills plaguing the Far East. They accepted the Communist version to which was attached an all-encompassing "etc."

Gen. Nam Il, the chief Red delegate, made the Communist intentions clear when he pointed out that the "etc." neither "binds the political conference to discuss certain political questions, nor does it exclude certain political questions from the discussions."

Thus the effect was to leave to the diplomats higher up the issues to be taken up at the conference to be held within 90 days of an armistice signing. Definitely on the program are the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea and the "peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

Klan Chief Faces

Postal Case Trial

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 19. (INS)—Bill Hendrix, grand dragon of the Florida Ku Klux Klan, will go on trial in Federal Court at Tallahassee Wednesday charged with violating postal regulations.

Hendrix is accused of writing libelous and defamatory postcards to Florida's Gov. Fuller Warren, Columnist Drew Pearson and two other Floridians.

The exact content of the messages has been withheld by the court.

Hendrix has entered a plea of innocent, claiming the whole affair is "outright persecution."

KNOW YOUR GEORGIA

By C. J. Holleran

A Georgia Rat Race

When James Edward Oglethorpe founded Georgia, he was in the unenviable position of serving three masters. One, the British government, which was putting behind-the-scenes pressure on him to complete military installations as rapidly as possible and train his colonists as troops. Second, the Trustees who were anxious to cash in on the production of silk and agricultural products, and third, the English people who had been sold on this venture as a great humanitarian project and were contributing liberally to its advancement. A man of less determination, ambition and intestinal fortitude would have pitched the whole proposition back in their laps! And to cap his troubles, the disgruntled colonists were antagonistic to everything, especially hard work. They claimed that conditions were insufferable, the climate unbearable, the cultivation of crops impossible due to calls to military duty. In 1738, Oglethorpe attempted to explain to the Trustees the loss of the entire harvest by saying the people were called from their fields by a "Spanish alarm." Men, he said, were doing military duty two days out of five. One colonist said it was necessary to recognize every sound in the forest, as to ignore an unusual one might mean instant death. Farming seems to have had its problems even in those days.

President Seeks Extension Of Emergency War Powers

ing used because of a collective-bargaining dispute.

2. The government may reduce the royalties to be paid by it on articles used in the defense program.

3. Reserve officers may be appointed in the armed forces without peacetime limitations.

4. Members of the armed forces may vote for federal officials notwithstanding absence from home.

ASKS PROMPT ACTION

Mr. Truman said that the bill does not include extension of all his wartime emergency powers, but only those which should be continued during the present period of emergency. The extension act would continue these 60 specified powers for the duration of the emergency, and six months thereafter, unless terminated earlier by action of the President or by concurrent resolution approved by both houses of Congress.

"I hope the Congress will enact this measure promptly so that the coming into force of the treaty of peace with Japan will not deprive the government of powers necessary for the national security," the President said.

Mr. Truman said the draft bill submitted to Congress was recommended to him by Secretary of Defense Lovett, by Attorney General McGrath, by Jack Gorrie, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, and by Frederick J. Lawton, director of the Bureau of the Budget.

The preamble of the bill declared that extension of the emergency powers is essential not only to the national security, but to the capacity of the United States "to support the United Nations in its efforts to establish and maintain world peace."

either to dominate the European army or desert it.

2. All four ministers agreed that the type and amount of arms to be manufactured by each member of the European Defense Community, including Germany, would be determined by the community itself, thus providing a safeguard against heavy rearmament by the Germans.

ANSWER PROMISED

3. Adenauer stated that within a week he would give his verdict on the recommendation of the executive bureau of the temporary council committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that Western Germany's contribution to Western defense this year should be eleven and a quarter billion marks. "There is every prospect" that an agreement on the amount of the contribution will be reached "by the end of the current week," the ministers said.

4. The four ministers agreed on recommendations to the North Atlantic Council, meeting this week in Lisbon, for the relationship to be established between the European Defense Community and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. These recommendations are expected to be that there should be regular meetings between the EDC and NATO, but no membership in NATO as yet for Western Germany, which will be a member of EDC.

4-POWER BOARD

5. The four also agreed on a method for dealing with German war criminals detained in the federal republic, the method reportedly being to establish a four-power board to review the sentences of the imprisoned offenders.

It appeared from the communique that all the substantive issues blocking the conclusion of the European army treaty and the contractual agreements with Western Germany were cleared away by the London talks, which started Sunday and continued through Tuesday morning. Only technical and drafting problems, which will have to be settled in the Paris conference on the European army and in negotiations between the Allied high commissioners and the Bonn republic, seemed to be left.

The three Western ministers first met on Sunday and were joined during Monday and Tuesday by Chancellor Adenauer. Before concluding their meetings and leaving London Tuesday afternoon the three visiting ministers—Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Robert Schuman—were received at Buckingham Palace by Queen Elizabeth II.

All three attended her father's funeral here last week. They were presented to the queen by their London host, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

"Frankly, it started with the woman next door. I don't see why she always waits till I'm there to tear open her mail and tuck a dividend check in her purse.

"I'd like to own stock, but what must I know first? There must be a thousand stocks to pick from. That's one problem. What's for me? Are there stocks I could hold for two, or five, or ten years? I expect there's some risk, but don't lots of women own stock—really?"

Women own a bigger share of American business than many realize. In more than one corporation, women shareholders outnumber men—in the top telephone company, in a great automobile company, in a leading electrical company, in a milk company, to mention a few.

Here's some counsel that experienced investors give: Don't buy stocks with money you need for insurance, home payments, or emergencies. Keep that separate.

Stay away from "tips" of well-meaning friends. Get the business information you want from a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange. And remember, there's a risk in owning any kind of property.

Every day, women walk into the offices of member firms of the New York Stock Exchange. They talk investments across a desk, ask questions, get answers. They know these firms don't charge for that kind of service.

DRY BED TRAINING

Bed-wetting is a discouraging problem which affects many children and adults. Drugs do not help in the average case, and punishment or scolding often aggravates the condition.

BED-WETTING CORRECTED

Many forms of treatment have been tried with little or no success. Now a new method has been discovered, which is usually successful in eliminating this humiliating habit in 3 to 4 weeks.

The method was invented by a doctor and is endorsed and approved by many physicians, and used by them for their own children. No drugs used.

Inside Huzvar

It made me feel five years younger the other day when I read that John Huzvar, the large, economy-sized fullback, would be unveiled as a new and awesome football weapon at Georgia this season. I was there in 1947 when they unveiled him at North Carolina State. Then the Marine Corps unveiled him, but the Korean war kicked off anyway. University of Pittsburgh was next in the unveiling line, after which I lost track of the Pennsylvania mastodon for a time.

It was almost as if an old relative had turned up when I heard last fall that Hammerin' John had matriculated at Georgia. He had a year to sit out, after which he would become eligible for the one season of college play left to him.

You could hardly say that he sat out that year, however. Ever so often reports drifted out of Athens of the wreckage Huzvar was making of Georgia scrimmages. If he wasn't backing up the line, he was carrying the ball, and in either role the havoc he wrought must have been something awful. Of course these reports should have been sifted and divided by two, but there's something captivating about big creatures and the damage they appear capable of inflicting. If he had been able to perform of a Saturday afternoon, the reports might have been tempered considerably.

The Huzvar background is unique and puzzling whether he ever plays a day for Georgia. Beattie Feathers, then the chief at N. C. State, and fresh from the school's most delicious season in nearly 20 years, personally penetrated Pennsylvania and captured Huzvar. He had been a whirlwind in high school at Hershey, the chocolate capital, and you could hardly name a college that hadn't made a pass at him.

That Feathers and State got him was indeed extraordinary, for the college is not big corporation football. They claimed it was the personal touch, for Feathers had spent much time communing with the family. At any rate, he returned to Raleigh that summer with Huzvar and luggage in his car, and the Southern Conference waited with feminine curiosity the big fellow's introduction to the league.

Because of a Knee They Never Knew

It came against Duke on a Saturday while Georgia played North Carolina 12 miles away, but Feathers edged the boy in cautiously. Another fullback started the game, Huzvar coming on shortly. It was not an unveiling fraught with explosive runs, dynamiting bucks into the line halted only by ovels of Dukes, or even victory. Duke won on the only touchdown of the day.

Still, big John was just a freshman and had probably been pushed ahead of his time. State never did find out just what Huzvar could do. He came down with a damaged knee, and the hinge healed slowly. He actually put in a few minutes as a lineman before the year was done, but the potential furor he created as the South's idea of Bronko Nagurski never came to a head.

Huzvar's football birthright was a glorious body of some 220 pounds and feet that could carry him 100 yards in something just over 10 seconds. Naturally the idea caught on hurriedly, and once you saw that tremendous human package, it was impossible to see how the idea could help but develop properly.

It is unfortunate that he got his start in the wrong sort of formation, for Feathers still clung to the Tennessee single-wing of Bob Neyland. The fullback duty involves much spinning and deception. Feathers always said Huzvar was too big to get the correct amount of fakery in his spinning. He was fast with the feet, but slow with the body.

No Spin, No Fake, Just Run Like . . .

At Georgia, Huzvar comes into the T-formation and the offensive duties of the fullback are less complicated. The deception involves acting rather than quickness and sleight of hand. Here again the idea of the large one taking a handoff on the run and bellywhopping into the line is thunderous.

He is not the swift boy of 1947, though he is now just 22 years old. But there's a lot more of him. At one time last year he was a bouncing boy of 265. He is now down to 250 and should lose at least 10 pounds more, but the shedding will come hard because there's not an ounce of blubber on him.

The legends of Huzvar are no products of a propaganda machine. He was not the pursued, but the pursuer. Wallace Butts isn't one who cottons to transfers, but when Huzvar's letter of approach, including measurements, arrived, his interest was aroused. Still his answer was skeptical. Huzvar demonstrated great honesty. His girl was at Brenau over in Gainesville and he wanted to be near her. The straight answer got him a taker.

Enthusiasm about Huzvar is limited around Ag Hill, where Georgia rears up its football machine. Except for the fact that he sticks out like a giant at a convention of midgets, and except that he's being taught some of the fundamentals that he missed along the way, he's getting no special attention.

This does not include the watchers. They'll walk up to the wire fence, or come through the open gate and ask: "Which one is he?" You know the man they're asking for. Huzvar.

Lookouts Kick Off in Southern; Busy Slate for Crackers, Barons

By JESSE OUTLAR

Atlanta and Birmingham have the most ambitious exhibition schedules. Chattanooga jumps the training gun on other clubs and Little Rock returns the most familiar faces in 1952.

Training data released by Southern Association Pres. Charlie Hurth shows that the Crackers and Barons, the loops top-drawing teams, have 21 and 20 spring games, respectively. The Crackers, who meet four major league teams including the world champion New York Yankees, have by far the most attractive menu.

Chattanooga, which has won only two pennants in 51 years, gets an early start with seven hurlers and five catchers reporting to Winter Garden, Fla., March 1. Ten infielders and five outfielders join the battery boys six days later. This 37-man roster including seven returnees from last year's cellarites, is the largest in the league.

Atlanta pulls its entire 36-man corps into Pensacola, March 3, with nine players back from its sixth-place outfit. Mobile unites with Brooklyn's minor league group at the Vero Beach assembly base the same day. The Bears list only seven men from their third-place club in 1951.

Bratton Meets Vic Cardell In TV Bout

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Former welterweight champion Johnny Bratton, Chicago, and Vic Cardell, Hartford, Conn., will meet in a nationally televised ten-round bout in the Chicago Stadium Tuesday night. WAGA-TV will carry the fight locally.

The winner probably will earn a March 26th match with Billy Graham, another contender for Kid Gavilan's 147-pound crown.

Bratton has 27 knockouts to his credit compared with Cardell's 14. Bratton has won 45 bouts, lost 17 and fought three draws, the last with Gavilan, who earlier broke Bratton's three-fractured jaw while in the process of taking his title away.

The bout is scheduled for 10 p. m. (EST).

Alabama Cuts Down Georgia Five

Sullivan's 24 Sets Record

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Led by tall Paul Sullivan, the Alabama basketball team broke loose in the third quarter to whip the Georgia Bulldogs, 74-56, Tuesday night.

Sullivan, 6-foot 8-inch center, tossed in 24 points to break his own school record. The Georgia defenders were unable to halt his hook shots.

Georgia kept it close the first seven minutes. 'Bama started edging out in front after that and kept the lead the rest of the way.

It was 22-18 for Alabama at the end of the first quarter and 37-31 at the half. The 'Bama cagers started hitting after the half and ran up the score to 62-45 by the end of the third quarter.

'Bama substitutes took over after the regulars rolled up a comfortable margin in the third period. Sullivan's 24 points moved his season's total to 352 in 19 games and broke the old all-time Alabama record of 335 he set only last season.

Guard Zippy Morocco led Georgia.

Norway Takes Team Lead; U. S.'s Dick Button Shines

By TED SMITS

OSLO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Norway's fantastic flyer, Hjalmar Andersen, scissored 11.6 seconds off his own world 10,000-meter speed skating record Tuesday and became the first in history to ring up three gold medal triumphs on consecutive days in the winter Olympics.

This proud little nation of winter sports enthusiasts was thrown into wild, cheering ecstasy when the lithe, 28-year-old Norsemann completed his brilliant triple by winning the race of some 6¼ miles in 16 minutes, 45.8 seconds.

On Sunday he captured the 5,000 meter crown in Olympic record time and Monday streaked to victory.

OSLO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Leaders in the unofficial team standings of the Winter Olympics after Tuesday's events (points based on 10 for first and 5-4-3-2-1 for next five places):

1. Norway, 91; 2. Austria, 51; 3. United States, 34½; 4. Finland, 24; 5. Holland, 24; 6. Italy, 20; 7. Germany, 19; 8. Switzerland, 13; 9. Sweden, 12½; 10. Canada, 3½; 11. France, 3; 12. Belgium, 1; 13. Japan, ½.

tory in the 1,500 meters, making him unquestionably the outstanding individual of the games.

Tuesday while a crowd of 25,000 in Bislett Stadium spurred him on with the chant "Heja-Hjalmar!" (Hay-ya Yallis), Andersen ripped 38.4 seconds off the Olympic mark of 17:24.2, set by Norway's Ivan Ballangrud at Garmisch, Germany in 1936. Andersen held the world record of 16:57.4 and has an even better clocking—16:32.6—up for recognition.

Ballangrud also swept three speed skating championships in 1936 and another Norwegian, Thoralf Haug, a distance skier and jumper, took three gold medals in 1924, but neither did it on consecutive days.

Andersen's feat made it another banner day for Norway although

He had to retire last fall as coach of the Philadelphia Eagles. He bought a home in Bloomington two months ago. He was coach of the Detroit Lions after leaving Indiana.

Ward Tops 'Champions' Qualifiers

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Harvie Ward, former golfing whiz at the University of North Carolina, shot a par-shattering 67 Tuesday for medal honors in the tournament of golf club champions.

Ward, Tarboro, N. C., clipped five strokes off par 72 for the 6,367-yard Ponce de Leon layout to miss by one stroke the competitive amateur course record of 66 established last year by Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga.

Manley, the defending champion, was among low qualifiers Tuesday with a one-under par 73-71.

Dynamite Bill Goodloe, Valdosta, Ga., posted 34-36-70 to finish in a three-way tie for third place with B. Melik, Racine, Mich., and R. Benjamin, Elmsford, N. Y.

Match play begins Wednesday with the 36-hole final on Sunday.

Two Ex-Kentucky Cagers Called In Fix

Walter Hirsch, Jim Line Linked With Barnstable in Newest Case

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Captain Walter Hirsch of the 1950-51 University of Kentucky basketball team agreed to come to New York Tuesday in connection with the point-shaving and New York District Attorney Frank Hogan said he was wanted as a material witness in the involvement of other Kentucky players in the scandal.

Hogan charged in an affidavit signed by Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor that Hirsch and two other players, Dale Barnstable and James Line, accepted bribes to shave points in games played in Kentucky and Arkansas in 1949 and 1950. Neither state then had laws against bribery in connection with sports events.

The affidavit also charged that Hirsch, Barnstable and Line had turned down offers of bribes for games played in New York. Barnstable already is under indictment, with former all-American players Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, on charges of accepting money to fix one game here.

Still another Kentucky player, all-American Bill Spivey, also has agreed to come here and testify before the grand jury in connection with the point-shaving scandal. Both players had turned down earlier attempts by the district attorney's office to have them come here and testify.

Spivey agreed last week to come here, and said he wanted to clear his name from suspicion. Earlier in the season he had asked removal of his name from the eligibility list, but he now hopes to be reinstated for tournament play.

Hirsch reached an agreement Tuesday to come here with three New York detectives, who talked with him in Dayton, Ohio, where he has been working. They were scheduled to fly to New York, but the plane reservation later was cancelled and it was reported all four had left by train.

Although no longer eligible as a player, Hirsch had remained in school last fall to work on his degree. Dean A. D. Kirwan said he didn't enroll for the spring term and Hogan commented:

"Indeed, his refusal to come to New York and co-operate as a witness was the basis on which the University of Kentucky did not permit him to re-enroll for the semester."

The affidavit said that the grand jury has received sworn testimony to the effect that Hirsch, Barnsta-

Frank Howard Says He's 'Jes' Lookin' at T

By EDWIN POPE
Clemson's Frank Howard, one of the last single-wing strongholders, is "jes' lookin' at the T-formation in spring practice," vows he won't switch. . . . Cartersville native Cal Hartness is through as a Furman guard. Next stop: New York Giants. . . . And Tennessee is fixing to try Doug Atkins, 220-pound defensive end ace, at both tackle and line-backer.

Poor boy-cotted Clemson! The Tigers' $35,000 guarantee for their game with Maryland at College Park next Oct. 4 is the largest surety a Southern Conference team was ever offered. . . . Ol' Miss kicks off spring practice Feb. 22, looking hard for replacements for six offensive starters and three from the defense. . . . Auburn, which also has two brother combinations in tackles George and Don Rogers and guards Joe and Ted Neuse, comes close on a line-backing duo of Ed Norton and Al

Naughton. . . . Look-alikes—Auburn tackle Bill Turnbaugh and former Georgia tackle Wyatt Posey.

Whack Hyder, Georgia Tech basketball coach, played baseball with the old Bona Allen semipro of Oxford with Jack Bear, last year's college baseball coach of the year at Oklahoma. . . . Trainer Kenny Howard is Auburn's sixth Olympic representative. Old ones were Bill Street, Jr., Wilbur Hutsell, Ed (Sails) Snyder, Percy Beard and Whitey Overton. . . . Tech baseball boss Joe Pittard may lose two seniors, shortstop Powell Shetter to the double responsibilities of fatherhood and graduation, and catcher Tubby Walton to the service.

Roosevelt, Southwest, Fulton Win

By JIMMY WALKER
Roosevelt, Fulton and Southwest were victorious Tuesday night in the first round of the Region 3-AA girls' basketball tourney at the Brown High gym.

The Tidettes of Roosevelt bumped Murphy, 33-22; Sylvan fell to Fulton, 29-38, and Southwest toyed with Smith, 33-25.

Roosevelt's bespectacled Martha Childs played a fine floor game and poured in 17 points as the Tidettes had an easy time of it, thanks largely to incessant fumes.

College Park Seeks Clayton Paving Pact

College Park City Council Monday night instructed its committee on building and streets to meet with Clayton County Commissioner John Hulan to plan the widening and paving of streets in portions of College Park outside Fulton County.

Two petitions were presented to council showing unanimous agreement of residents to pay two-thirds of the paving cost, if the city would pledge construction of curbing and gutters.

College Park council also postponed action on a proposal to enter an agreement with Fayette and Clayton County authorities on the building of a metropolitan hospital in the South Fulton area.

$850 in Bonds At Stake in Waller Case

Traffic Judge Luke Arnold has ordered the Garner Bonding Co. to produce Guy F. "Crash" Waller, 31, a convicted liquor runner, in court by March 18 or pay off $850 in bonds posted by the company for Waller on a series of traffic charges.

Deputy Recorder Frank White ordered the bonds forfeited Saturday when Waller failed to appear in court on charges of overrunning three stop signs, overrunning six red lights, drunk driving, speeding 85 miles per hour, improper lights and driving in the wrong traffic lane.

The charges grew out of a police chase Feb. 6.

Rushton's address, together with the presentation of the Jack Williams trophy, entertainment features, and presentation of Ware County corn production champions, will offer a varied program, it is promised by the committee on arrangements, including John Harrison, chairman, Jack Williams Jr., and John Huff.

The dinner will be held at 8 o'clock at the Legion Home.

Reports of the past year's accomplishments will be presented in printed form, to conserve time.

A number of tickets have already been sold, and it is stressed that reservations should be made not later than noon Wednesday, in order that proper arrangements may be made for serving the meal.

President R. M. Porter Jr., and retiring President George Fesperman urge all members to make their reservations at once, predicting one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever staged by the Chamber of Commerce.

Rushton's address will be on "The Twilight's Last Gleaming," dealing with national and international problems.

Rushton, former president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, and for two years president of the National Association of Ice Industries, has been a resident of Jacksonville since the war, having founded the Rushton Company which he now operates.

Legion Beer Sales Tabled

CAIRO, Feb. 19.—Grady County commissioners have set aside indefinitely a hotly-argued battle over whether or not to allow the local American Legion post permission to buy a state beer license.

The move came to a head in a called commission meeting, attended by a legion representative group and an opposition body composed mostly of preachers and church backers.

The commissioners made a motion to deny permission and seconded the move, then set the matter aside.

The legion contended there is no law which prohibits them selling beer at their home here.

The county fathers never have sanctioned beer sales.

Warner Robins Mayor Cites Progress, Problems

Special to The Constitution
WARNER ROBINS, Feb. 19.—"Intelligent investigation of the facts of government would eliminate 99 per cent of the criticism leveled at our city officials," Mayor W. T. Giles told the local Optimist Club at its last meeting.

"Too few people in our town either don't care or won't go to the trouble to get the facts about the operation of our city government," he added.

Warner Robins is a war-born town of about 15,000 population today. Less than 10 years ago it was a sleepy village of about 50 persons with the name Wellston. Construction of the huge Robins Air Force Base across the Southern Railway tracks from the town created a change that has resulted in some criticism for city officials.

Among the highlights of Giles' remarks before the Optimists were:

1. During the past 12 months the population of Warner Robins has increased 2,700. At least this large an increase in population is anticipated for the next 12 months.

2. The cost of extending the city's sewage system to new areas of the mushrooming town is 17 times the anticipated yearly tax income from the area served.

3. Warner Robins has the lowest tax rate of any town its size in the country.

POLICE RECORD

4. The police department, which has been criticized as inadequate despite a record of no capital crimes in the history of the town and a rating of "good" for lack of vice in a recent survey of the American Social Hygiene Society, cost $18,704.18 for the first 10 months of 1951.

5. A fee of $1 a month is charged for garbage collection. It costs the city $1.48 per unit serviced, or a loss of 48 cents per unit per month.

6. A tax on beer was one of the most profitable taxes with an average of about $2,000 a month coming into the city treasury from this source.

More than half the property in the town is government owned and not taxable.

Boy, 9, Stands Bravely As Family Is Buried

DOUGLASVILLE, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Thomas Ralph Chapman sadly watched his parents and two brothers buried in four graves side by side Tuesday and soberly pondered his future.

The 9-year-old is the only survivor of what until late Sunday was a closely knit family of five living in the Bill Arp Community.

He saw the lives of his father, Thomas Albert Chapman, 41, his mother, Ester, 40, and his brothers, Charles Howard, 15, and Donald Bryan, 13, snuffed out seconds apart by a high voltage electric line near nightfall Sunday.

He himself sensed the deadly danger and halted barely in time to escape the sputtering wire, down in a field near his home. At the same time, he cried out a warning to horror-stricken neighbors drawn to the scene and probably saved the lives of some of them.

A throng turned out for flower-banked funeral at the Flint Hill Methodist Church. Ralph attended with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Giles, with whom he has stayed since the tragedy, and with other relatives.

He was the most part dry-eyed and friends said "he is bearing it mightily well for one so young." He was thinking part of the time about his own future. Soon he will decide with which of his relatives he will now make his home. A dozen or more have offered him his choice.

An hour before the funeral, the crowd was described as "like a great camp meeting." Friends, relatives and sympathizers, including U. S. Rep. Henderson Latham, sent three large truck loads of flowers.

In charge of the services was the Rev. C. Herman Smith, assisted by the Rev. Selby Allsworth and the Rev. Reuben Baxter.

Upton 4-H Club Wins Cup Twice

THOMASTON, Feb. 19.—The Thomaston Kiwanis Club Cup Tuesday was awarded, for the second year in a row, to the 4-H Club of John Thurston School in Upton County.

The club was recognized last year as the most outstanding club in Georgia.

The club this year compiled 10,298 points in competing with all the other Upton County 4-H organizations. Its record was nearly 3,000 points higher than that of the runner-up.

The Kiwanis Club was entertained at a luncheon prepared in the school's cafeteria. The program was sponsored by the students. The cup was presented to Patsy Royal, president of the 4-H Club, by Bob Chandler, chairman of the Kiwanis club's agriculture committee in 1951. Others participating in receiving the award were Hillman Pitts, boys' vice-president of the 4-H Club and Mary Jean Denham, girl's vice-president.

The local 4-H Club won statewide recognition last year as the winner of the Community Improvement Contest and other awards.

Among those at the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Woodson, L. L. Butts, Mrs. Claude Hancock, Upton County Agent C. A. Bryant, Upton County Home Demonstration Agent Sue Stanford and school principal C. C. Tate.

Decatur County Citizens Vote For Officials

Constitution State News Service
BAINBRIDGE, Feb. 19.—The voters of Decatur County will cast their votes Wednesday in the county primary.

The highest interest is being shown in the race for sheriff with the incumbent, A. E. White, campaigning for re-election against two opponents, W. D. Harrell and Raymond Powell.

County Treasurer Les A. Parker is being opposed by Woodrow W. Emanuel.

Running for the two expiring terms on the County Board of Commissioners are R. E. Wells, incumbent, of the Faceville district, who is being opposed by Byron Johnson, and Jesse L. Brock of the Climax District who is offering for re-election with E. M. Mills as his opponent.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups are sponsoring a "Get Out and Vote" campaign.

PRICING AND POLISHING ART WORK THAT MAY PROVE PRICELESS
Students Kay Keith and Ruel Hatkins Prepare Work To Hang in New Showroom of Art School

Art Originals Make Friends With Budget

By JEAN ROONEY

Young marrieds now can dream of dwelling in beauty if they have a yen for original paintings. Students at the Atlanta Art Institute are opening a gallery where fine art may be purchased at a price in keeping with setting up a home or efficiency apartment.

Opening their showroom-gallery at the school, the young artists are offering their first "masterpieces." Besides hoping to be successful artists, they want to encourage Atlantans who operate on a pay check to start collecting originals.

Most of the paintings are hand framed by the artists themselves.

The gambling spirit may motivate some Atlantans to buy originals, Kay Keith, one student, believes.

"It's like trying to pick a winner in a horse race," Kay says. "Some day some of us may be famous."

Instructor Mrs. William Addams predicts several of the talented youngsters now selling their work will gain national recognition.

Gallery hours are 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. weekdays and Saturdays. Ceramics, sketches and glass paintings are also shown.

Buttons Buck Up Wan or Wilted Wardrobes

By SCARLETT RICKENBAKER
When fashionists advise you to "button up," they don't necessarily mean a chilly spring is in store. They may have a bit of exterior decoration in mind.

Buttons have long outlived their original functional use . . . and are showing up these days in the most unlikely (and delightful) places.

Take, for instance, the sweater. As a matter of fact, take an old cardigan, one which has served you loyally through several previous winters.

DO IT YOURSELF

Whip a three-inch-wide band of velvet, yoke-fashion, around the shoulders, scroll it in gold braid, and decorate it with clusters of jewel buttons.

Anything goes here, pearls, rhinestones, imitation sapphires, rubies, moonstones, and the like. Presto! You have an elegant topping for your velvet slacks.

Hats are perfect foil for the gal with a pocketful of exciting new buttons. Last year's cloche makes this year's headlines.

Take a length of ribbon (plaid or striped for sport, solid for dress), speckle it with interesting buttons and you have the newest hatband in town.

REMOVABLE HATBANDS

With a bit of ingenuity, and hidden snaps, you can have several attachable hatbands for each hat.

Buttons combined with milliner's braid, stitching or rickrack, will transform a tired pillbox into a custom-made gem.

And a sprinkling of tiny rhinestone buttons eyebrow-level across a veil does wonders for an old hat.

Button belts are a cinch in more ways than one. If you make your belt out of felt or some other heavy fabric, instead of sewing the buttons directly on, punch a tiny hole where you want the button.

Then pull the shank of the button through and sew the buttons lengthwise together in back. Jewel buttons look wonderful on velvet, and metal or jet buttons on felt and fake fur.

Buttons on shoes

Buttons are wonderful on shoes . . . and the latest whimsy is to stud the back of the heel of your steepest pair, with tiny jewels. They guarantee a double-take.

Combined with gold or silver braid, buttons give a lift to velvet flats, or ballerinas, and one crown-jewel button at the throat of your opera pumps adds immeasurable chic to your whole ensemble.

Make them into cuff links, earrings, stickpins and chokers.

Use them anywhere it strikes your fancy, and you're sure to hit high fashion right on the button.

Star Here Gives Rules For Beauty

By AGNES McCARTY

Vera-Ellen, only dancer who ever did a split with her first name, has devised a beauty system that's easier to follow than the rhythm routines she has screen-stepped with leading energy exponents, Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly.

Hollywood's favorite bathing suit model stopped in Atlanta briefly on her way to Miami. She hugged her mink coat close and said she hoped this part of the South would be as sunny when she returned for a personal appearance Friday.

WEEKLY SCHEDULE

Here's the slender tripper's tips for beauty care on a weekly basis.

Monday she does bending and stretching exercises.

Tuesday, Vera-Ellen concentrates on her brows, creaming them well and brushing them into shape before removing stray hairs.

Wednesday, in addition to the daily hundred brush strokes, Vera-Ellen tends to her midweek coiffure perk by dampening a piece of cotton with cologne and setting the curls.

Thursday is complexion day. With a brush she lathers her face and throat with a mild soap, rinses it off with warm water and finishes up with a dash of cold.

After an application of lubricating cream she removes the surplus and allows a thin layer to remain overnight.

Friday is manicure day.

Saturday is pedicure time for the twinkling toes. Legs also get a careful smooth-over.

Sunday is for relaxing.

FIGHTS TRAVEL FATIGUE

Vera-Ellen, who is now touring in connection with her new movie, admits there isn't much a girl can do to hide travel fatigue.

"Best beauty aids for a trip are a sun tan to cover up dark circles and a veiled hat to keep hair in place," she said.

Secretaries Start Meet On Friday

A reception at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the Variety Room of the Henry Grady Hotel will launch a three-day meet of the southeastern district of the National Secretaries Association.

National head of the group, Mrs. Mary Hagan Barrett of Pittsburgh, will address banquet meeting Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in the Dixie Ball Room.

A "Women Through the Ages" luncheon Saturday will feature Dr. Robert Burns, pastor of Peachtree Christian Church, as speaker.

The opening session at 9:30 a. m. Saturday will be presided over by Mrs. Inez Theos, Atlanta president. Miss Margaret Bibb of Memphis, Southeastern vice-president, will officiate at all business sessions.

Awards to outstanding members will be made by Mrs. Odesa Henson at a breakfast Sunday morning in the Dixie Ball Room. Miss Christine Smith, Atlanta movie censor, will discuss "Woman in the Atomic Age." Convention chairman is Mrs. Grace Dudley.

Woman's Club To Sponsor 'Hansel, Gretel'

The opera "Hansel and Gretel" will be given by the Atlanta Opera Workshop, 8:30 p. m. Friday at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Sponsoring the production will be the fine arts department of the Woman's Club, with Mrs. J. T. Cagle, chairman.

A cast of 30 Atlanta singers and dancers will perform the Humperdinck opera, directed by Dolores Marcelli. Leading roles will be taken by Mildred Daugherty, Jo Hamilton, Mildred Johnson, Thornton Womach, Mary Lu Allen, Avis Geis and Mrs. Marcelli. Planning the ballet and choreography are Sarah Wagstaff Rogers and Glen Ryman. Conductor is Rod Davidson.

Mrs. Maloy is the former Miss Nancy Claudia Crider, daughter of Mrs. Anna Herrmann Crider of McRae and Claude L. Crider of New Orleans. Her marriage to Mr. Maloy, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Maloy, took place at the McRae Methodist Church. Afterward Mrs. T. J. Smith, Mrs. J. M. Cook and Mrs. L. L. Folsom entertained at a reception at the Civic Memorial Center. The couple will reside on St. Simon Island.

Chafing Dish Cookery For Men and Women

By AGNES REASON OLMSTEAD

Many women (and some men) will join me in saying there's a lot of fun, good hospitality and delicious meals in chafing dish cookery.

These little table stoves come in many styles and sizes in copper, brass, pottery, nickel, silver and occasionally in pewter. They consist of two pans, one for cooking and one for hot water.

Heat for cooking is supplied by an alcohol lamp, canned heat or an electric unit.

The flexibility and adaptability makes a chafing dish an exciting addition to any kitchen. Incidentally, it can be used in the dining room, living room, porches or on the terrace.

When not in use we have seen women make some mighty attractive flower arrangements in these three-legged containers. (The idea of flowers in a container used for cooking.)

Chafing dishes may be used to hold hot appetizers previously cooked in the kitchen. These are ever so popular served in the living room with a chilled juice for the first course.

The chafing dish is best used for cooking the main dish at the table; it may be used on buffet tables to keep food warm; it may be used at the table to prepare glamorous desserts. Somehow there's a fascination to seeing food cooked amid good conversation.

HOW TO USE THEM

Chafing dishes are ideal for the apartment dweller as well as the woman who likes to entertain gaily but without a servant.

We've had many calls recently about how to cook in chafing dishes.

Here are two words of advice: First, read the manufacturer's directions which come with the container and follow his advice on the use and care. Second, buy a good chafing dish cook book to guide you in at least the basic cookery methods.

If chafing dish cookery is new to you, why not try out some simple recipe on the family for Sunday breakfast. You won't be

Amazing new "Face Lift" takes years off your age

A new cosmetic

There's a new cosmetic that gives the face a bracing, firming, lifting feeling. It tends to mold the loose, flabby skin of the face into the firm, but lines of youth, to smooth away wrinkles, and to bring a wonderful glow to the complexion. You can feel and see it work against age lines to help hold back years from your face. Wonder of wonders! Jawline puffiness, mouth-to-nose lines, and that tired look really disappear.

Pour sufficient into the palm of your hand. It takes only seconds to apply this new flowing cream onto the face. Action begins at once. Learn how to "cup" your chin-line and how to massage this "face-lift" around the eyes.

Celestine Sibley Manna, Money And Minnie . . .

Medora Field Perkerson said something at the Pen Women's celebrity breakfast last week which continues to amuse and delight us whenever we think about it.

The talk was about mothers and their influence on and pride in the writings of their children. Medora said when she wrote her first best-selling murder mystery somebody asked her if her mother was surprised she had written "Who Killed Aunt Maggie?"

"No," Medora replied. "She's surprised I didn't write 'Gone With the Wind'!"

Since the day of the Christopher Award announcement—known in our family as "the day Mama became a thousandaire" or, more specifically, "the day the manna fell from heaven"—we have caught a glimmering of the way it must be with the rich and famous. In fact, we're surprised we didn't write "Gone With the Wind." We've had that much fun.

The letters of congratulations and good wishes have been the best of all. The Christophers' check will come and go but for the rest of our life we will remember the wonderfully kind letters from thoughtful people.

A letter is something we're always meaning to write. When we have the time or can find a pen or remember to buy some stationery we will, we swear, write that letter. Sometimes we even get so far as getting the letter written but then we can't find a stamp or something sidetracks us and we find the letter months later caught in the upper lining of our desk, crumpled and dust-covered.

A letter, written, addressed, stamped, mailed and delivered, is to us a miracle.

And the fact that so many people have taken the trouble to aim such miracles in our direction is a curiously touching thing. The day the most letters came we sat and read them and felt like singing that old camp meeting hymn, "Beulah Land," particularly the part that goes, "I'm feasting on the manna from a bountiful supply." . . . with the basses and the altos coming in with a strong "Praise God!"

Some of the letters have been nice long ones wherein the writers have shared with us some of their experiences and feelings. Some have been from old friends we haven't seen in many years. (There was a lovely one from Emma Schmidt, our cherished Best Friend when we were in the third grade at Creola grammar school.)

And some, like Minnie Hite Moody's, contains a helpful bit of philosophy to be saved and remembered on future days when the going isn't so good.

"All the years of my writing and through many delays and disappointments and frustrations," wrote Minnie Hite, "I have been sustained by those good words from the Lord Vicar of Wakefield, 'Let us keep inflexible and fortune will at last change in our favor.'"

PERFUME THAT CLINGS

Q. Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houghton Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at better stores.

MARY HAWORTH

Home Hour Problem

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband's working hours are variable. Some days he goes to the job very early; other days he doesn't have to report until nearly noon.

Also, perhaps he had long assumed that after the children were on their own there would be a mutually consoling return to early-married togetherness—Respect for your own sensible preferences, if combined with sympathy of what ails Andy, seems more constructive than wasting mornings at his side.

DEAR R. S.: Andy's attitude is inconsiderate, yes; but it is no help to the situation to simply say that.

Andy's variable hours of work and his preference for sleeping late undoubtedly cost him a great deal of opportunity to really know and get close to his family.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by The New Yorker (Mother of 5)
One of the smartest things about babies is that they prefer comfort, don't care a fig about high fashion. (Although they always manage to look adorable in whatever they wear.) So for that first year, mother, dress baby in comfortable, functional (rather than ultra-cute) clothing. Then he can creep, crawl and kick to his heart's content. Of course, it's nice to have one or two "Sunday-go-to-meeting" outfits for special occasions.

Lady in waiting? If you're waiting for Mr. Stork to ring the bell, why not send for the cheery, helpful leaflet, "New Tenant Expected." Just drop a card to me, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box N 45-P, Fremont, Michigan.

February bath bulletin. During these frosty days make sure the room in which you bathe baby is warm and free from drafts. Have his toes within arm's reach before you start dunking him. Dress him as quickly as possible after drying.

Get in the "soup". I mean that in a very nice way—because I'm talking about Gerber's Strained Soups, which contain three important food groups: vegetables, cereals and meats. Gerber's Chicken Soup, Vegetables and Liver, Vegetables and Bacon, Vegetables and Beef, and Vegetables and Lamb are not only taste-tempting, but contain many of the body-building elements that growing tykes need. Once you see your darling enjoy these fine soups, you'll never be without them.

Nice afterthought. Remember, all Gerber's Baby Foods are made by the folks who make "Babies their business . . . their only business!" Small wonder so many little ones love them so.

Here's Why I Own Mutual Funds

"Investing isn't new to me. My business is successful and so is my securities account. But a while ago I realized that I couldn't pass on to my wife or children the investment 'know-how' which it has taken me years to acquire. That's when I decided on a Mutual Fund program, for the best reason I know —my family's welfare.

"Here was a way to obtain continuous, professional management for our invested savings, plus diversification and income in different amounts depending on the Funds I selected. Best of all, my family will go on enjoying these benefits no matter what happens to me. I call that 'management' insurance."

So You Want to Speculate...

Good.

It's that spirit, that willingness to take a risk, that helped build America. It was true of the early explorers and fur traders, of the Henry Fords and the John D. Rockefeller. And it's true of thousands of today's businessmen. Yes, and millions of farmers, for every man who ever put a seed in the ground remains inevitably a speculator.

But should you speculate? Specifically, should you speculate in commodities and thus elect to share with the farmer the natural hazards of bringing a crop to market?

The answer depends on you—on your temperament, on your financial ability to carry the risks involved, and above all things, on your knowledge of exactly what you're doing. For the man who buys or sells futures contracts without the most complete and reliable information he can lay his hands on—informed about crops, markets, and prices—isn't a speculator. He's just a fool.

So if you want to speculate, we'll be glad to consult with you about the outlook for any commodity market and about the extent to which your own situation will prudently permit you to speculate.

As a starter, you might like to study our little pamphlet, "Speculation as a Fine Art." You'll find it a challenging review of the certain risks and the uncertain rewards of speculation. We'll send you a copy without charge or obligation, of course. Just write—

Engineer Hits High Taxes As Crushing To Incentive

Backs Slash in Revenue Take To Bolster Free Enterprise

By ALEX JOINER

The engineer today is enjoying a "field day" but taxes take a lot of the pleasure out of it.

That's the way L. D. Dresser of Tulsa, Okla., president of the National Society of Professional Engineers, summed up the situation for the Georgia society Tuesday night. Main speaker at a Biltmore banquet highlighting the local organization's celebration of "Engineers' Week," Dresser declared:

"Engineering is enjoying an unusual and unprecedented cycle of demand, but taxes are stifling free enterprise."

SHORTAGE OF ENGINEERS

He estimated there is a present shortage of 60,000 engineers whose services are being demanded more and more, not only for industry and public improvement but for executive positions in business.

"Industry today is based on technology and business acumen," Dresser said, "and the engineer is a 'natural' for business management."

However, taxes threaten to douse incentive in the engineering profession as in other fields of endeavor, he warned.

Estimating that he himself works 225 days a year for the federal government in taxes, Dresser urged their reduction on a national scale to forestall the "depressing trend toward a welfare state."

Atlanta Bank Clearings

Total Tuesday	$47,800,000

TAKING INCENTIVE

Taxes, he said, are taking from engineering the "work as you please, make as much money as you please" incentive that makes for progress.

This is serious, Dresser said, because the nation demands engineering services as never before, especially on the local level.

He urged his listeners to assume responsibility for supporting and promoting needed civic and community improvements and to participate in civil defense, "the most part of which is of an engineering nature."

At the same time he urged "exercising good citizenship—especially the right to vote—to bring about a return of the original concepts of our government."

BETTER CIVILIZATION

"Main responsibility of the profession today, as always, Dresser concluded, 'is to contribute to the making of a better civilization.'"

Earlier in the day at a business meeting Dr. Ray L. Sweigert, Georgia Tech professor, was introduced as new president of the Georgia chapter to succeed John Hinton Lopez of Cedarhurst, O. New officers include A. O. White Jr., first vice-president; John W. Lovell, second vice-president; Arley Walker, treasurer; George M. Normandy, secretary; and Roy J. Boston, national director.

Output East's Tops

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The American pulp and paper industry plans to increase its annual capacity by more than two million tons this year, an industry official said Monday.

E. W. Tinker, executive secretary of the American Paper and Pulp Association which holds its annual convention here, based the figures on an association survey and government certificates of necessity.

Speaking at a concurrent meeting of the Sulphite Paper Manufacturers Association, he gave the following breakdown of planned production increases: paper capacity, 532,800 tons a year; Georgia, Florida and Alabama

Shattuck Completes Insurance Course

Warren Shattuck of the Robert L. Foreman agency of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. has returned to Atlanta after completing a four weeks' advanced insurance course at the home office in New York, N. Y.

Shattuck, a graduate of Emory University, was one of a group selected from various parts of the country for training in the use of the Analograph Plan, the company's type of estate analysis.

Shattuck, 662.78 tons, and wood pulp, 1,016,647 tons.

Tinker said that although the United States has only six per cent of the world's population, it now consumes 60 per cent of the world's production of paper and paperboard. And it produces 58 per cent of world production, he said, or more than the rest of the world combined.

26 Million Paid To Georgians in Death Benefits

Georgia families received $26,306,000 in life insurance death benefit payments during 1951 as compared with $25,135,000 in 1950 the Institute of Life Insurance reported Tuesday.

Payments in the state were made under 40,572 policies, compared with 36,938 policies in 1950 and 21,078 in 1941, last prepar year. Of the aggregate 1951 payments, $15,065,000 was under 5,922 ordinary policies; $4,201,000 under 2,755 group policies, and $7,040,000 under 31,895 industrial insurance policies.

The National death payments last year amounted to $1,709,401,000, greatest on record. National total compared with $1,589,744,000 in 1950 and $1,009,636,000 in 1941.

Benny Sets Sights On TV Stint; No Radio

Jack Benny, who flew in every type of plane in Korea, en route to the Coast by train, as a result of the crashes at Elizabeth, "I hate trains for long trips," confided Benny, "but this time I really got scared." . . . He'll stop over in Chicago for two days. Benny may be heading east soon again, to resolve the impasse that developed over his TV plans. Starting in October, he wants to do a TV show every two weeks and drop out of radio. His giggle sponsors and the CBS network want him for radio, too. . . . Borrah Minneville's "Jour de Fete," filmed in Paris, expected to be one of the "sleepers" of the year. His comedy find, Jacques Tati, is a big-league talent. . . . Judy Garland, entering her 20th and closing week at the Palace, rates all the adjectives of show business.

British star Alec Guinness racking up an American reputation as the greatest all-around performer in films. In "Oliver Twist" he scored with his characterization of Fagin; in the hilarious "Lavender Hill Mob," now at the Fine Arts Theatre, he turns in a superlatively shaded light-comedy performance; in "The Man in a White Suit," due soon, Guinness blends comedy and pathos in greater measure than the modern screen has witnessed. I'd say that Guinness, in his field, and Olivier, in the Shakespearean reaches, are England's outstanding export items.

Attention, Authors League: Funeral expenses of Author Margaret Mayo, who penned "Polly of the Circus," "Twin Beds" and other great hits, have not been paid, though authorized by you, as executor of the estate. This is a shabby memorial to Miss Mayo, who built 14 homes at Harmon, N. Y., for needy fellow professionals. The Mt. Kisco funeral home is planning to carry this to Gov. Dewey, after a year's fruitless attempt to recover $812. . . . In offering the Milton Berle show to other sponsors, the Wm. Morris agency serves notice that TV costs of such ambitious productions have soared to such a stratospheric point that even big

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Should you tell a child "This is good for you?"

Answer: Not unless you have been more successful than most parents in keeping your child from feeling that what is good for him and what he likes are the opposite of each other. If there is a new dish you want to add to his diet, do not "oversell" it, because this will make him suspicious, but don't say it is "good for him," either. The best way will be to let him see that you eat and enjoy it, for seeing you enjoy something will dispose him favorably toward it more than anything you can say. This applies, of course, not only to food but anything you want a child to cultivate a taste for. Don't tell him—show him!

Does realism exclude faith?

Answer: By no means. There are aspects of reality which are unpleasant, especially from a childish standpoint, but it is no more "realistic" to expect the worst than to hope for the best. If there is something you want to accomplish, you will be wise to recognize the obstacles that stand in your way, but it is not as a rule unrealistic to believe that you can find how to surmount them, and "faith" of this kind will both release your energies and inspire you to go on trying. The fellow who "doesn't know when he is licked" may be just stubborn, but quite often the reality is that, in spite of appearance, he is not licked at all.

Do your friends try to "standardize" you?

Answer: Yes, say Dr. Leon Festinger and John Thibault. University of Michigan psychologists. In any small, face-to-face group there is a "pressure toward uniformity," with the bulk of members tending to "gang up on" the individuals whose opinions are most different from the average. The stronger the feeling of group solidarity (as in a fraternity) the more insistent will be the demand that everyone be pretty much like everyone else. One of the main reasons for belonging to a group is to protect yourself from the sense of dangerous isolation created by doing your own thinking, so that you tend to feel safest in a group whose members are "like-minded."

Recommended by thousands of Doctors for over 15 years announces—convenient new way to daily regularity!

NEW SARAKA TABLETS

Just 3 tablets a day can give you gentler, more comfortable constipation relief than oils, salts, pills, liquids or any harsh laxative you ever used—or better than your money back!

ADVERTISMENT

Why do doctors warn against harsh, purging laxatives? Because the faster these laxatives act, the more likely they may further irritate an already over-sensitive intestinal tract.

Doctors recommend products which provide the soft bulk sluggish intestinal muscles need for satisfactory elimination. Thousands of doctors have recommended Saraka granules for over 15 years.

Like the famous granules, new Saraka Tablets form a bland "gel" which, helped by a special pure vegetable ingredient called correx frangula, gently urges intestinal muscles to get back to work. Results are so nearly natural, most people have no "laxative" sensation.

School Supt. Vote Denied Dublinites

Constitution State News Service
DUBLIN, Feb. 19.—The Laurens County Democratic Committee has named Cone Burch of Rentz as chairman and Harold Ward as secretary-treasurer; fixed the date for the county primary and ruled that Dublin residents cannot vote in the election of the county school superintendent.

The primary was set for June 25, with April 1 as the opening date and May 1, noon, as the deadline for qualifying. It was also ruled that a runoff will be held in case of no majority.

Prior to the executive session, Atty. R. I. Stephens cited a law which, he said, excludes Dublin residents from voting in the election of county school superintendent. Incumbent Supt. L. H. Cook presented opposing views. Elbert Mullis, former superintendent, supported the position presented by Stephens. He stated that he is not a candidate "as of now," but left the impression that in all probability he will enter "the race" against Cook.

Record Vote Is Expected In Baldwin

Constitution State News Service
MILLEDGEVILLE, Feb. 19.—With only a week remaining before the Democratic primary Feb. 27, when voters will nominate all county officers, candidates are busy rounding up votes and making their appeals.

Approximately 9,000 persons are qualified to go to the polls. The registration list has been increased around 500 since last election, and the largest number in history are qualified to cast their ballots.

The race for sheriff, with four candidates, Frank Broome, Dennis Cox, Buford Lingold and Arthur (Fat) Smith, is increasing in intensity.

Three candidates, Cliff Collins, Woodrow Little and H. S. Roberts are battling it out for coroner. Billy Massee and Arnold Parker, incumbent, are in the ring for Post No. 1 in the Legislature, while Culver Kill, incumbent, is campaigning for re-election against Bob Green.

The registration increase is expected to bring about the largest vote in the history of the county.

Officials Study Ouster Suit Reply In Phenix City

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Phenix City Commission—with three of its five seats challenged in a legal action—met in closed executive session Tuesday to discuss answering charges in quo-warranto proceedings filed against it.

One commissioner later reported that the suit filed Friday by Russell Betterment Association official Hugh Britton was discussed and that a rebuttal would be filed this week in Russell Circuit Court.

Britton's quo-warranto proceedings charge that the 1947 Alabama legislative act which converted Phenix City from a three-man commission to a five-man set-up is unconstitutional.

The action seeks to oust commissioners J. D. Harris, who also is mayor, and Roy Greene and Otis Taff on grounds they were elected under the allegedly unconstitutional act.

Greer Says Feud Killed School Building Program

MACON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Rep. John Greer of Lakeland said here Tuesday that a political feud between Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin and House Speaker Fred Hand killed the proposed school building program in the legislature but it was probably a good thing the bill did not pass. Greer, leader of anti-Talmadge forces in the House, was principal speaker at a meeting of the Macon Lions Club. He said the $100 million long range school program was so complicated and intricate that most members of the legislature didn't understand it. He said no harm would result because the General Assembly can enact the program at next year's session.

20 Seek Newton Offices

Constitution State News Service
COVINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Newton County primary will be held March 5 and 20 candidates are seeking nine county offices.

The offices of county commissioner, with three candidates and sheriff with six are the most hotly contested.

Incumbent Sheriff Thomas M. Bates is not asking for re-election but has entered the race for county commissioner. Tax collector S. M. Hay will not run again.

County Commissioner Isaac Robertson is opposed by Thomas M. Bates and O. H. Spears. Ordinary Donald G. Stephenson has as his opponent J. R. Wommack. Coroner H. S. Dobbs is opposed by W. C. Bouchillon, Emory Ellis and Howard Thompson.

Candidates to succeed the present sheriff are Wiley Allgood, John L. Berry, Wendell W. Kitchens, Henry Odum Jr., C. L. Vaughn and Jack L. Wright.

B. L. Johnson, unopposed, is a candidate to succeed the present tax collector.

Dear Madam:
Re the Contour Chair which I purchased from you last January, I expect you have a lot of people say, or (as least think), "That's a lot of money for a plain chair."

After using it for several months, I say that it is a lot of chair for plain money, and if a situation should arise in which I could not replace it, I would not sell it for several times the price I paid for it.

After coming home tired from a day's work, a few minutes relaxation in the chair works wonders.

I have had several friends who say, "Oh, that is too big to fit in with my furniture." Also, "Oh, it wouldn't look well with the rest of my furniture." My Mother used to say to me, "Handsome is as handsome does" and based on that definition, the Contour Chair is by far the handsomest piece of furniture in my home.

Yours very truly,
HUGH MARSHALL
